Unwed Coeds Unable To Secure Contraceptives from GW Doctors

By Mike Blank
BIRTH CONTROL devices or pills will not be prescribed to unmarried coeds by University doctors it was learned by the HATCHET last week.

A 19-year-old sophomore coed, who went to the Health Service on Thursday and requested a prescription for Enovid (a popular oral contraceptive), was told by Dr. Margaret Callan that "We won't give you any...we're unofficially opposed to it."

When the coed protested that it wasn't the role of a Health Service to pass a moral judgment, Dr. Callan replied that "We can give prescriptions at our discretion...I'm not going to argue with you."

Dr. Richard B. Castell, director of the Health Service, later explained the University policy on the matter. "We don't mind helping married girls," Dr. Castell stated, adding, however, that they would not prescribe any birth control devices or pills for unmarried coeds.

Dr. Castell told the HATCHET that the University doctors have "practically no requests" for contraceptives, and that, although "we could legally prescribe Enovid for girls over 18, we would run into complaints, complaints, complaints."

The question of birth control policies of university clinics has come under a great deal of discussion (see HATCHET, Dec. 14, page 4) since it was disclosed that the Brown University Health Service was distributing birth control "information" to Pembroke coeds.

At Purdue University, Dr. Loyall W. Combs, director of the student health service, summed up the Purdue policy by stating that each case is handled on a strictly "individual basis."

While Dr. Combs emphasized that oral contraceptives should not be used indiscriminately, he did state that it was not impossible for unmarried students at Purdue to get a prescription only as a preventive to pregnancy.

ROTC To Be Abolished by '67

AIR FORCE ROTC will be abolished by 1967, by an order issued Jan. 3 by University President Lloyd H. Elliott.

In accordance with the provisions of the 1951 contract establishing the ROTC program, which specifies that either party may terminate the program, Dr. Elliott communicated his decision to do so to the area commandant of the Air Force ROTC.

In his letter, Dr. Elliott stated that "this action reflects no dissatisfaction with the Air Force ROTC program, or with the fine officers who have so ably staffed it at George Washington, but derives from our inability to recruit members in sufficient numbers to build the kind of group we would feel justified in continuing."

He emphasized that the "present staff of the program deserves full commendation for the devoted efforts which it has given in regard to it, and to the students who have had the benefit of its instruction and guidance."

At the same time, Dr. Elliott has asked Vice President John Anthony Brown to arrange for future GW students desiring enrollment in the ROTC program to obtain it at one of the other area universities.

The program is to be phased out, with final cessation at the end of the 1966-67 academic year, when those persons presently enrolled in ROTC will graduate. In the intervening period, no new applications will be considered, and only senior transfer students with at least one year of ROTC experience will be added to the program.

The program at GW began in 1951 with a four year curriculum. In 1964, the ROTC Utilization Act authorized a two year program.

Presently, a student interested in ROTC training attends a six-week field training course the summer before beginning on-campus training, and then takes four semesters of training.

This involves three credit hours of work each semester, during which time the student receives a monthly subsistence pay.

After completion of the program, and attainment of his degree, the individual is commissioned as a second Lieutenant in the Air Force, and has an active service obligation of four years, which may be deferred if the individual wishes to continue his education.

Over the past four years, GW's ROTC program has averaged fifteen commissioned officers each year, according to Major William E. Adams, professor of aerospace studies.

Union To Stay Open 24 Hours For Finals

THE STUDENT UNION will be open 24 hours a day starting Jan. 12. The extension of hours will be on a trial basis for several days, and, if enough students take advantage of the extension, the Union will remain open 24 hours a day until Jan. 20.

Slater's Food Service will be providing free coffee and hot chocolate on the third floor vending area from approximately 11 pm to 7 am. The machines supplying them will be fixed to operate without money.

Free hot chocolate and coffee will also be provided by Slater's in each of the dorms during the exam period.

After the trial period of several days it will be determined to what extent the extra hours are being utilized. If students use the facility only until 3 am, then it will only be open until 3 am.

This extension of hours for the final exam period and the coffee service resulted from a motion submitted by Allen Snyder, HATCHET editor-in-chief, and passed by the Student Council at last Wednesday's meeting. The motion was made by Sam Gilston, Student Council publicity director.

Ralph Grebow, Student Union Board chairman, stated at the meeting that he had attempted to get the Union's hours extended and had not been able to arrange the extension with University Business Manager John C. Elmbinder.

The motion read: "Resolved: That the Student Council arrange with the University Business Office to keep the Student Union open 24 hours a day for the benefit of those students that wish to study there at night during the final exam period.

"Further, that the council arrange with the ARA Slater firm to provide free coffee and hot chocolate for those students studying there for final exams when no other facilities are open."

Rules Announced For SC Elections, Set for Feb. 10-11

PETITIONING for Student Council offices will open on Jan. 27 and run until Feb. 4 in accordance with the election rules established by the Elections Committee headed by Bob Wallace.

Sixteen new offices, 14 of which will be open to freshmen, have been established as a result of an amendment last May. The increase will come from an addition of four representatives from Superdorm, one from each of the other dormitories, and two from each of the non-resident areas of Virginia, Maryland and the District. Freshmen are eligible for all the new offices except Strong and Madison Hall representatives.

The offices of advocate, comptroller and member-at-large have been abolished as a result of the amendment. The responsibilities of the advocate will be assumed by the vice-president. The treasurer will assume the responsibilities of the comptroller, and with the wider representation the office of member-at-large was considered unnecessary.

Qualification requirements have been stiffened for the executive offices. The QPIs of the president, vice-president, and activities director must be 2.5 instead of the 2.0 as it has been in previous years. The president and vice-president must have completed forty-eight credit hours and must have attended GW for four semesters prior to taking office. The secretary and treasurer must have completed three semesters and thirty-six semester hours. The treasurer must also have completed at least six semester hours in college level accounting courses.

The Activities Director will need forty-eight semester hours and four semesters, the last twenty-four hours of which must have been at GW.

Campaigning will be extended from Feb. 4 through Feb. 11. This year any recognized organization on campus will be allowed to campaign on behalf of candidates, and will be allowed to financially support any such candidates. This amount will be

Plans for the next trip to be held on Feb. 12, will be made. All persons who wish to go on this trip must attend the meeting.

The members are looking for a more difficult ascent than their first trip to Old Rag Mountain in the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia. Twelve persons made the first climb and some were able to try some elementary rappelling--scaling cliffs with heavy ropes.

Bill O'Connor, a freshman member of the group, hopes to teach more rappelling to interested club members. He is presently looking for suitable faces and is considering some of the nearby buildings. "The Washington Monument is too easy, though," he laughed.

He would like to teach the basics of rappelling, belaying and handling ropes and knots, all of which he has had two years experience with in the Swiss Alps.

O'Connor was part of a National Geographic expedition in the Calanque region bordering on the Mediterranean Sea. His instructor is climbing Mount Everest next year and will also attempt to scale the north wall of the Eiger mountain in Switzerland next winter.

SC President To Receive Full Tuition Grant-in-Aid

By Jessica Dunsay
Student Council Reporter

A FULL-TUITION grant-in-aid will be awarded to the president of the Student Council beginning with the president elected next month, announced Student Council President Skip Gnehm at the Council meeting last Wednesday.

The proposal has secured final approval from University President Lloyd H. Elliott and will go into effect beginning next semester.

Under the resolution, the president of the Council will receive a grant-in-aid for two semesters beginning with his accession in February. This stipend would be subject to the same requirements as those grants presently awarded to the editors of the HATCHET and the CHERRY TREE.

The measure was first recommended by the HATCHET in an editorial in its issue of Sept. 21.

A motion to adopt such a resolution, introduced by Comptroller Murray Levy, was unanimously passed by the Council on Sept. 22 and forwarded to President Elliott for action.

In further business, the Council approved a proposal, presented by Secretary Marietta Bernot, to sponsor an inaugural reception for President Elliott. The reception, to be held on Feb. 14 in Lisner Auditorium, will be open to all students at the University.

The Council instituted a program of orientation for the next Student Council. The "brainstorming session" will be held the weekend of Feb. 19 at Airline House, reported Program Director Tom Metz, who will also serve as chairman of the project.

The members of the outgoing and incoming councils will attend, as well as President Elliott, Chairman of the Board of Trustees E. K. Morris, and several other trustees.

A motion by Comptroller Levy to withhold the grades of 1965 Homecoming Comptroller Gary Litman if he does not turn in a complete financial report by Jan. 15 was defeated 12-3 in a roll call vote. Litman submitted a report to Levy which Levy returned to him a month ago because it was incomplete.

Levy claimed that although two months had elapsed since Homecoming, a final report had not been submitted. Litman said that he had not been able to file his report because of delays from the Alumni Office.

Reports are supposed to be filed within one month after the event. The non-financial part of the Homecoming report was submitted, but cannot be accepted without the comptroller's report.

In opposition to the motion, Upper Columbian Representative John Gordon requested that "a little latitude be given," since failure to register might make Litman liable for the draft.

It was reported that eight fraternities owe a total of $480 to Booster Board for buses rented for football games. At the last meeting the Council passed a motion to bill all the fraternities and withhold the grades of their presidents if they failed to pay.

Controversy has arisen over whether the buses for which they are being billed were actually used by the fraternities. A motion by Lower Columbian Representative Lou Colaguri to create a committee composed of the treasurer, comptroller, and chairman of Booster Board to "investigate the fraternity bus problem as to the validity of the bills" was passed.

The eight fraternities involved are AEP, DTD, KS, PSK, Sigma Chi, Sigma Nu, TEP, and TKE.

Honors Course Offers Junior Year Abroad

OUTSTANDING SOPHOMORES may now apply for the International Honors Program, a new program attempting to combine the features of an honors program and a junior year abroad.

No student will be denied a chance to participate because he is unable to pay the full cost of the program. Cost of the IHP will be somewhere around $4850 per student. The IHP is prepared to grant each institution's participant a scholarship of $1000. The other money must be met by the student and his institution.

Each year the IHP will field an eight month study group of three preceptors and twenty students, who, following an orientation period in the United States, will spend approximately five to ten weeks in each of three to six countries. Each school participating will send one student.

GW will choose one student and one alternate to participate in the first program, which will begin in September, 1966. Sophomores who wish to apply should speak to the department chairman of their major field or to Dean James King, assistant dean of Columbian College.

Applicants will be asked to write an essay explaining their reasons for wishing to participate and the goals they wish to achieve with the IHP. They will also appear before a faculty board which will make the final decision. The participant must be chosen by Feb. 1.

Itinerary will vary from year to year according to the specialties of the preceptors. Japan, Turkey, Poland and Sweden might be examined one year; India, Iran, Kenya, Italy and Czechoslovakia the next.

Each student will be housed with local families, arranged through a host university, the representatives of the Experiment in International Living, or a local student organization.

The curriculum will be interdisciplinary; three courses will be chosen each year from the following fields: ancient and modern history, comparative philosophy and religion, comparative literature, history of the arts, and comparative political, economic, and social systems. The courses offered will depend on the specialties of the preceptors.

Within each country, reading and discussion will be supplemented by the use of local resource persons, field trips, interviews, and independent study.

Classes will be conducted in English, with the aid of an interpreter, if necessary. However, the student, who is chosen before the spring semester preceding his departure will have time to learn the basics of one language spoken in one of the countries to be visited. There will also be preparatory readings during the summer before departure.

Once in the field the student will be expected to cover assigned readings, take part in discussions, participate in group field work, and engage in an independent project in at least one of the countries visited.

Unlimited Cuts Finds Approval At 3 Schools

COMPULSORY CLASS attendance has recently been abolished by three more colleges.

The faculty at Muhlenberg College at Allentown, Pa. passed a proposal for unlimited cuts with the exception of freshman students and those on academic probation which will be left to the discretion of the individual departments. All students will also be required to fulfill the special requirements regarding physical education.

According to the Muhlenberg weekly, "Students are responsible for work missed on account of absence, and it was emphasized that students should not assume that attendance will not be taken, but solely that it will not be a means of expressing the student's grade."

At Boston College, the Council of Undergraduate Deans terminated the requirements of mandatory class attendance as of Nov. 3 on a recommendation proposed by the Intellectual Climate Committee of Boston College.

Lehigh University in Bethlehem, Pa., has exempted all juniors and seniors from the regulations regarding attendance beginning with the spring semester.

According to the Collegiate Press Service, "While the university continues to maintain its basic principle that attendance at regularly scheduled classes is expected of all students, the new ruling recognizes that mature students can make responsible decisions, and permits all juniors and seniors to use individual discretion concerning class attendance."

Health Center Expansion

Is There A Doctor in the House?

EXTENSION OF HOURS of the University Health Center will go into effect as soon as the center can find a physician willing to work the evening hours, according to Dr. Richard Castell, director of the Health Center.

Dr. Castell said, "We have a nurse lined up, but we are being turned down left and right by doctors who are not willing to work the late hours."

This past fall the Student Life Committee made a recommendation that medical facilities for students be made available 24 hours a day.

On Oct. 20 Student Council President Skip Gnehm appointed a committee to work with members of the Administration in establishing this service.

Improvement of health center facilities was also included in the letter sent to the Board of Trustees last spring and signed by fifty student leaders.

As a result of this letter, Acting President Oswald S. Colclough appointed a special committee to investigate and recommend improvements in health service. The committee suggested an extension of hours, compulsory health insurance, and better student education about medical facilities.

The committee's report was given to the President's Office for study. No action was taken on the report during the remainder of the term.

The Health Center has been working to improve facilities, however, and has recently installed equipment worth over $2000. The center serves approximately one hundred students a day. Two doctors are on duty at all times from 9 am to 5 pm, during the week.

Dr. Lamont Pugh, University physician, is retiring this year because he has reached the mandatory retirement age. The Health Center will look for a replacement for Dr. Pugh this summer.

added to the candidates financial statement. He is allowed to spend twenty-five dollars for his campaign.

Candidates may obtain approval for posters on Feb. 7 at 9 am and for other campaign material after Feb. 4. No candidate can post more than four posters on the bulletin boards of any one building. In the case of Residence Halls, only one poster per candidate per board is allowed. Candidates running as dorm representatives will be allowed two per floor in Superdorm.

A compulsory candidates meeting will be held on Feb. 5 at 11 am at which the campaign rules will be explained. At the meeting, the HATCHET will ask the candidates to complete a questionnaire on their opinions and policies. The HATCHET will also hold a press conference with the candidates in order to become better acquainted with their views.

The election issue of the HATCHET on Feb. 8 will contain statements by the candidates on their platforms and qualifications. This issue will also include the results of the questionnaire distributed at the candidates meeting. In the editorial column, the HATCHET will endorse the candidates it considers to be best qualified for the positions.

The election will be held at Woodhull C on Feb. 10 from 9 am-8 pm and on Feb. 11 from 9 am-5 pm. The results will be tallied on Feb. 11, and announced the following evening at the Inaugural Concert.

Appreciation Certificates Awarded to 20 by Council

TWENTY RECIPIENTS of Student Council Certificates of Appreciation were announced at the Student Council meeting last Wednesday. These certificates are presented yearly to persons who are not members of the Council but who have done outstanding work for the Council.

Charles Bacon assistant to the vice president, Peter Hill, associate professor of history, and Charles Reed, instructor in physical education for men, were cited for their cooperation with the Council.

Dianne Alexander received an award for her outstanding work as chairman of Holiday Season for two years; Don Bialek for his job as chairman of the Commuter Committee and as Skip Gnehm's assistant; Paul Chemnick for his work on the Professor Evaluation Survey; and Bill Cronwall and Claudia Mann for their efforts as co-chairmen of Colonial Cruise.

Also cited were Joe Farina for work on the Intercollegiate Red Cross Committee; Tova Indritz and Paul Johnson for their service as co-editors of the Orientation HATCHET; Bruce Innes and Pat Jones for improving and broadening the IFC and Panhellenic Council; and Claire Kummer and Mary Organ for serving as assistants to Student Council Secretary Marietta Bernot.

Others who received certificates were Brian O'Neill for improving the study facilities on the 4th floor of the Student Union; Steve Perlo for his job as chairman of Booster Board; Doreen Shaddix for her work on the Homecoming Committee; Allen Snyder for improving and broadening the coverage of the HATCHET; and Dave Williams for work on the University Center Committee.

Five Amendments Posed To Student Vote, Feb. 10-11

FIVE AMENDMENTS to the Articles of Student Government will be presented for referendum on the ballot for Student Council elections on Feb. 10 and 11. The texts of the changes proposed and approved by the Student Council appear below.

Executive Committee

ARTICLE IV

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

A. Membership shall consist of the following:

1. President of the Student Body
2. Vice President of the Student Body
3. Secretary of the Student Council
4. Treasurer of the Student Council
5. Activities Director of the Student Council
6. Chairman of the Student-Faculty Liaison Committee
7. Chairman of the Resident Hall Committee
8. Chairman of the Commuter Committee

B. Procedures

1. The president shall be the presiding officer.
2. The Secretary shall be the Secretary of the Student Council.
3. Meetings shall be open to members of the Student Council, members of the Executive Committee, and other such persons as may be invited by the Executive Committee for the purpose of business. This clause may be set aside for any single meeting by a majority vote of the Executive Committee.
4. All decisions of the Executive Committee shall be made by a majority vote of members present and voting.
5. A quorum shall consist of at least five members.

C. Powers

The Executive Committee shall have the power to:

1. Establish the agenda for Student Council meetings.
2. Determine the rules and procedures for discussion of business before the Council.
3. Approve recommendations of the Activities Committee.
4. Exercise authority over such areas as may be delegated by the Committee on Student Life to the Student Council.

5. Act for the Council during the Summer Session.
6. Act for the Council in cases of urgency during recesses from the academic semesters.

D. Restrictions of Power

1. All acts of the Executive Committee are subject to the approval of the Student Council at its next regular meeting.
2. The Executive Committee shall not assume any powers not delegated to it by the Articles of Student Government, or delegated to it by the Student Life Committee, or delegated to it by a majority vote of the members of the Student Council present and voting.

Program Director

ARTICLE IV, SECTION C, SUBSECTION 2

The Program Director shall serve as Vice-Chairman of the Executive Board and the Activities Committee and promote, foster, and coordinate annual programs. In conjunction herewith, he shall submit for approval of the Student Council by August 1 a list of those events which are to be considered "closed nights" for the coming school year. (Proposed addition) The Program Director, with the approval of the Activities Committee, shall select all talent for Student Council events.

Residence Hall Committee

APPENDIX: RESIDENCE HALL COMMITTEE

Section I. Purpose

This committee shall study, investigate, and hear grievances of suggestions from any Residence Hall student or student group concerning problems specific to Residence Hall students.

Section II. Membership

The members of the committee shall be the Student Council Residence Hall Representatives. The Chairman of the Committee is to be selected from said representatives and to be appointed by the President of the Student Council and approved by a majority of the Student Council members present and voting. The President of the Student Council shall serve on this committee as an ex-officio member but shall have no vote.

Section III. Procedures
This committee shall meet on the call of its chairman or the Student Council and it shall hold at least one meeting each month during the Spring and Fall semesters. The meetings of this committee shall be open to anyone.

The Chairman of the Committee shall see that written record of each of the Committee's meetings is kept, and he shall report to the Council in the form of said record and answer any and all questions posed to him by the Council members.

Before the Committee publishes any reports, it must first report to the Council for its approval and acceptance of such report. The publishing of such report shall be under the direct control of the Council.

The Committee shall follow the rules and stipulations in this related appendix in all its activities unless the Council determines otherwise by a majority vote of the members present and voting.

Absence With Proxy

ARTICLE VIII, SECTION B

Four absences from Student Council meetings during a calendar year without the presence of a proxy automatically places a Student Council member before the Committee on Student Life for censure or removal from office.

(Proposed addition) Four absences from Student Council meetings during the academic year with the presence of a proxy automatically places a Student Council member before the Committee on Student Life for possible censure.

Student Council Approves '66 Election Rules

ADMINISTRATION of this election is solely under the jurisdiction of the Elections Committee of the Student Council under the chairmanship of the advocate of the Student Council, Bob Wallace. Candidates having any questions about these rules may call him at the following numbers: Fe 8-0250 ext. 438 (9 am to 5 pm) and Ol 4-4854 in the evenings. Other members of the Elections Committee are: Ken West, Ron Ullrich, Bruce Jetton and John Fridlington.

INTENT

These rules are intended to secure a fair election which is to the advantage of all candidates. All candidates and students should, however, be forewarned that any violation of these rules or any attempt to unfairly influence the outcome of the elections will be dealt with to the fullest extent of the powers of the Elections Committee and of Student Government. Students witnessing such violations are encouraged to report said incident to a member of the Elections Committee or to the Advocate. The Elections Committee will meet on the call of the Advocate and will conduct a hearing on the violation allegation with all parties having equal opportunity to appear and defend their position. Students will be assumed innocent until proven guilty. Any candidate or student found guilty of a violation is hereby advised that he may request a hearing from the Student Council and the Committee on Student Life on the finding of the Elections Committee.

PRE-CAMPAIGN PROCEDURE

1. Petitioning for student office will be held daily from 9 am to 5 pm from Thursday, Jan. 27, through Friday, Feb. 4 at 5 pm. Any student who wishes to run in the election must file a petition form, the validity of which (QPI and number of semester hours at the University) can be verified by investigation by the Elections Committee.

2. Persons will not be permitted to petition for more than one office. If a candidate wishes to change the office for which he has petitioned, he must do so before 5 pm, Friday and may switch only if he has first obtained the permission of the Elections Committee.

3. Upon petitioning to run, a prospective candidate must pay a registration fee of $10 which is refundable at the end of the election if all election rules have been followed. No candidate will be allowed to withdraw from the election unless he has first obtained the permission of the Elections Committee.

4. Each candidate upon petitioning must name another student with a minimum QPI of 2.0 who is designated as his campaign agent, whose task it shall be to advise the candidate to insure obedience of rules.

5. Any candidate found guilty of a violation of the rules may be fined all or a part of the $10 fee, temporarily suspended from the election or removed from the election by the Elections Committee.

6. All monies resulting from improper withdrawals or fines shall be donated to a charity to be named by the Student Council.

7. All candidates are required along with their designated agent, to attend the CANDIDATES MEETING on Saturday, Feb. 5, at 11 am on the second floor of the Student Union at which time these rules will be explained.

8. If there is any uncontested office after Friday, Feb. 4 at 5 pm, then petitioning for that uncontested office will remain open until 11 am, Saturday, Feb. 5.

9. Any person who has petitioned to become a candidate for any office before 5 pm on Friday, Feb. 4, shall not be allowed to later withdraw his petition and submit an additional petition to become a candidate for another office at any time after Friday, Feb. 4 at 5 pm.

CAMPAIGN PROCEDURE

The campaign period will be from Friday, February 4 at 5 pm until Friday, Feb. 11, at 5 pm. No candidate may commence to campaign until the Elections Committee has confirmed the validity of his petition. It is for this reason that we urge each candidate to petition early.

2. It shall be considered a serious violation of the rules for any candidate or student to in any way deface or harm University property or the property of other candidates, or in any way disturb the peace or classroom decorum.

3. The Polls will be open from 9 am to 8 pm, Thursday, Feb. 10 and 9 am to 5 pm, Friday, Feb. 11. Students are requested to vote by presenting themselves along with their ID cards during this period. Students should be reminded that any double voting will be severely dealt with by the Elections Committee. Balloting will be held in Woodhull C at which time a member of the Student Council and or Student Life and ROTC will be present to assist each student in voting and assure fairness to all candidates.

4. Each candidate must submit to the Elections Committee, in the Student Body President's Office, by 8 pm on Thursday, Feb. 10, an itemized statement co-signed by his agent of all campaign expenditures, which shall not exceed $25. Candidates are reminded that all gifts or donations of materials must be valued at their retail value. The statement shall include the following: "I certify that the information given above is true to the best of my knowledge." The budget shall be accompanied by specific documents supporting each transaction (printing etc.). Any gifts, donations, etc., will be assigned their retail value for the purpose of listing expenses. Any falsification or deliberate omission from this report may be considered grounds for fine or disqualification by the Elections Committee.

PUBLICITY AND CAMPAIGN REGULATIONS

1. The carrying of placards, "soapboxing," and other similar but reasonable means of group participation will be permitted on G St. between 21st and 22nd on the following day and times (the number of participants to be limited to ten persons including the candidate): Monday, Feb. 7, 12-1:30 pm; Tuesday, Feb. 8, 12:30-1:30 pm; Wednesday, Feb. 9, 12:30-1 pm; Thursday, Feb. 10, 12:30-1:30 pm.

Any other type of rally which might be boisterous or disturbing in any way must first be discussed with the Elections Committee for their approval.

3. The Elections Committee is empowered to schedule during the campaign period, candidate forums and other types of campaign programs where candidates for the various offices may confront each other in public for discussion. The times of such forums and programs will be announced prior to the closing of petitioning.

4. No more than 4 posters for a given candidate can be placed on the bulletin boards of any one building excepting those residence halls established by the University, and not more than one poster per candidate per bulletin board. Posters may be placed only on bulletin boards and tree stands between 20th and 22nd on G St. No more than one poster per candidate may be placed on any one tree stand. Removal of posters in violation of the above rules will be made by the Elections Committee. Dormitory candidates will be allowed to put up posters only within their dorm or part of dorm as specified in the Election Rules. Candidates who are running from geographical areas will not be allowed to use bulletin boards within the Residence Halls. Candidates running as dormitory representatives will be allowed two posters per floor and four posters per floor in the New Women's Residence Hall.

5. Campaign materials may not be distributed in classrooms nor shall candidates or student supporters disrupt classrooms by carrying posters or other disruptive actions.

6. Due to the increased number of contested positions no poster shall exceed 8 1/2 by 11 inches in size and must be approved by the Elections Committee before being posted. No poster will be approved until Monday, Feb. 7 at 9 am. All other materials must be approved by the Elections Committee before being circulated and this type of material may be approved at any time after 5 pm Friday, Feb. 4.

7. Candidates running for Executive Committee positions will be given special privileges to post several signs larger than the prescribed 8 1/2 x 11 inch size. Each candidate should talk to the Chairman of the Elections Committee as soon as he has petitioned to discuss the size, shape and number of signs he wishes to post.

8. No campaign literature shall be allowed in front or within Woodhull House (defined to mean from the corner of 21st and G to Building C). Campaign literature will be allowed on the first floor of the Student Union.

9. Candidates will not be permitted to circulate or distribute copies of the HATCHET or any part thereof as a means of campaigning. Nor will a candidate be allowed to use University equipment before or during the campaign for campaign purposes.

10. Candidates are reminded that station WRGW will be available for campaigning as long as all those desiring its use and running for the same office are granted equal time. All times of candidates speaking on WRGW must be submitted to the Elections Committee at least 48 hours prior to the appearance, for their approval.

11. The Elections Committee shall have the power to declare a person's candidacy invalid for severe violation of the rules. Candidates maintain the right to appeal such decisions to the Student Council and the Student Life Committee.

12. All candidates will be held solely responsible for any or all actions or their designated agent who may be found to be in violation of these rules.

13. Any recognized organization will be permitted to participate in the campaign but only on behalf of a candidate or candidates. No recognized organization will be permitted to endorse a candidate unless it has first submitted a written statement to the Elections Committee that the candidate accepts the endorsement. This statement must be signed by the candidate.

14. Any organization that participates in the elections must obtain approval of all material circulated from the Elections Committee and any violation of the election rules by said organization will constitute possible removal of that organization from the election and possible penalty to any candidates that were associated with them at the time.

15. All money spent by organizations will be divided among the candidates they endorse or support and added to the candidates' financial report.

16. All organizations wishing to participate in the Student Government Elections will be required to submit a statement signed by their president and faculty advisor that they will adhere to the Election Rules and the decisions of the Elections Committee.

POST-CAMPAIGN PROCEDURE

The Advocate, President of the Student Council, and Dean of Men will assemble at the polls at 5 pm on Friday evening to tabulate and certify the results of the election. Any student or candidate wishing to enter a complaint of a violation of these rules must make such desire known to the Advocate by 5 pm, Friday, Feb. 11.

The results of the election will be announced during intermission at the Inaugural Concert, Feb. 12.

Onie Elected Dorm Pres. By Crawford Hall Council

CRAWFORD HALL'S dormitory council representatives elected Larry Onie as their new president last week. Onie previously served as a floor delegate and cultural director of the dormitory and was the 1965 publicity director of Homecoming week.

Appointments made by the new President are: Arnie Levy, secretary; Sy Block, treasurer; Bill Brobst and Jim Chromiak, cultural co-chairmen; Bob Sugarman, Publicity chairman; Matt Kramer and Mike Woolly, publications co-chairmen; Joe Farina, community service chairman; Dave Markman, social chairman; Mike Holloran, sergeant-at-arms; and John Sammartino, inter-dormitory relations chairman.

Crawford Hall residents plan to hold a discussion covering the possible ill effects of taking stimulant pills during final exam week. Also, Crawford will co-sponsor a Kennedy Foundation recreation program for retarded children. A monthly bulletin, The Crawford Hallite, will serve as an open forum for all hall residents and will soon go into publication.

Crawford's dorm council has sponsored discussions with faculty associates Robert W. Kenney, assistant professor of history, and Stephan Schiff, assistant professor of zoology.

A volleyball game with I Hall of Superdorm, an inter-floor basketball tournament, a pool tournament, and a combination Christmas Party and hootenanny have also been sponsored by the council.

Grad Record Exams

Eleven Seniors Excel

ELEVEN GRADUATING seniors scored in the ninetieth percentile or better on all parts of the Graduate Record Examination that was given Dec. 4.

All seniors are required to take the examination which is used for rating the participating colleges and their students.

These tests included the aptitude tests (verbal and quantitative) and the area tests (social sciences, humanities, natural sciences) for the Columbian College of Arts and Sciences, School of Government, Business and International Affairs, and the College of General Studies. The School of Engineering requires the aptitude tests and the advance engineering test.

From the Columbian College Phyllis Charney, Ellen Christenson, George Deihl, Maryfrancis Green, Linda Hill, Paul Kainen, Olga Muraviev and Linda Walther placed in the ninetieth percentile.

Larry Broadwell and Joel Meinecke represented the School of Government, Business and International Affairs. The School of Engineering and Applied Science was represented by William Kolb.

Freshmen Facts and Figures

Girls Outnumber Boys 5:3

by Dave Sokolec

STATISTICS INDICATE that GW's freshman class has continued the male-female ratio that exists at this University. There are 483 men in comparison with 568 freshman women. The full-time undergraduate student body has a ratio of 2,462 men to 2,527 women.

Academically, 28 per cent placed in the top tenth of their high school class. Forty-three per cent of the men and fifty-nine per cent of the women placed in the top 20 per cent of their high school class. This is better than last year's freshman class with thirty-eight per cent of the men and 55 per cent of the women placing in the top 20 per cent of their class. Among the engineering students, 42 per cent of this year's freshmen placed in the top fifth of their class, whereas last year's class only had 31 per cent in the top one-fifth of their high school class.

College Board scores indicate that the freshmen women can guess better than men at answers on the verbal and composition tests with scores of 591 and 578 compared to the men's 582 and 539. The men, however, apparently have more fingers because they scored an average of 588 in math to the women's 558. Both men and women did better on all of the tests than last year's freshman class. The men scored 556 on the verbal, 577 on math and 526 on English composition. The women scored 570 on verbal, 536 on math and 571 on English composition.

This impressive assemblage of intelligentsia comes from 46 states, ten countries and six hundred secondary schools, although most come from the New England-Middle Atlantic area. New Yorkers number 220, New Jersey sent 143, there were 118 from Maryland and 102 from Virginia.

Aside from regular trips to the Midwest and South, the admissions office has broadened its recruiting effort this year to the states of California, Arizona, New Mexico, Washington and Colorado.

Of the 2619 who were accepted out of the 3954 applicants, 1051 were registered, making the campus population 12,456 in comparison with the 11,965 last year. This breaks down into 8,065 men to 4,391 women. The increase of population has brought the number of people living in the residence halls to nearly 1900. Aside from the undergraduate students there are 5,271 graduate and professional students and 2,196 non-degree students.

Two schools showing significant increases are the Law School and the School of Government, Business and International Affairs. The Law School had a 16 per cent increase and a 54 per cent full-time enrollment for the first time, while the School of Government showed a 20 per cent increase in enrollment.

Student Numbers Increase; War Babies Enter College

CINCINNATI, Ohio (CPS) -- The number of students in the nation's colleges increased by ten per cent this year in the most massive movement in the history of higher education, an official at the University of Cincinnati has announced.

Dr. Garland G. Parker, university registrar, who compiled School and Society Magazine's 46th annual enrollment report, said 4,686,057 students -- 3,292,539 of them full-time -- were enrolled in 1,095 colleges and universities this fall.

The number of full-time students represented an increase of 12.7 per cent, while the number of part-time students at 1,044 institutions increased by only 3.3 per cent. Dr. Parker's report is based on a mail survey of the different colleges and universities.

He attributed the increase partly to greater social and economic pressure on young people to go to college, the availability of more financial aid and more accessible branch campuses. The war in Vietnam apparently is responsible for the low rate of increase among part-time students, he said.

"There is no doubt that many male students elected to become full-time rather than part-time students this year in an effort to postpone or evade military service," Parker said, noting that this was the lowest increase in the part-time category in three years.

For the second successive year, the number of freshmen rose by 17.3 per cent "despite the fact that the 18-year-old population increase this year was no more than 10 to 12 per cent above 1964," the report said.

Teacher colleges reported the largest total enrollment increase for the sixth straight year: 17.5 per cent. Figures for other schools include: technological and related schools, 13.6 per cent; arts and science, 11.6 per cent; fine arts, applied arts and music, 5.1 per cent; and theological schools, 2.1 per cent.

"The role of the urban unit is expanding," the report added, noting that urban universities and colleges are growing at the fastest rate. As of now, 32.4 per cent of the total enrollment (29.4 per cent of all full-time students) is attending the 30 largest universities.

The five largest schools according to the report's figures are: California State Colleges, 177,324; State University of New York, 176,729; University of California, 134,789; City University of New York, 130,911; and the University of Minnesota, 58,274.

Teller Examines 'Progress Since Hiroshima'

By Irene Phillip
HATCHET NEWS EDITOR

"PROGRESS Since Hiroshima" was examined by Dr. Edward Teller, nuclear physicist and former professor at GW, as part of the American Thought and Civilization Program of the General Alumni Association last Friday evening.

Dr. Teller attacked the scientists and intellectuals who insist that scientific progress should be discontinued because we have received all the benefit that science can give us and that any new knowledge will only do more harm than good. He cited the instance when President Kennedy asked for advice on whether to continue the space race.

"When President Kennedy was considering the decision whether or not we should spend billions of dollars for the purpose of sending a man to the moon, the scientific community almost unanimously gave the answer: 'no,' he said.

Teller continued, "There are not many instances in history when a group of people will protest against the rapid development of their own field--against more work, and more power that such development is bound to bring. It is an old idea that progress may indeed be the devil."

"We usually associate this idea with medieval history. We are beginning to find not only that the same general thought is taking root among us but that some of the strongest advocates of caution are our intellectuals, in fact in many cases our scientists," he said.

Teller cited human curiosity as the reason why progress will continue in spite of objections. "If you were to ask me why we go out into space, I would guess that we go out to look for surprises--for knowledge," he said.

Scientists are not infallible, however, he maintained, and stated further that mistakes will happen and must happen if progress is to continue. "When Columbus set out for his famous voyage, what he wanted was to establish better trade with China, something that hasn't been established yet. Don't ask any of us to make better guesses than Columbus," he said.

"I don't know what we'll find. Conceivably we might find on another planet some strangely complicated compound that might throw light on the strange complication that we know as life," Teller continued.

He also mentioned the possibilities of using weather control to help with the problem of growing enough food for the world's population and using machines to help us understand how our own minds work.

The question of how these new discoveries will be used bothered him, however. "I am most disturbed about the prospects concerning the next generation, because here indeed we come against the value judgements: improve and tell the good from the bad. Of all the danger I think this is the greatest one," he said.

In this vein he continued recalling his reaction to a geneticist who spoke of eliminating all chance mutations of persons in the future, and at that point I got much more worried than on the evening that Leo Sillard called me up with the news of the future atomic bomb.

"Nor do I think that is proper to only talk of one side of atomic energy or to even think what I did say that once we made the atomic bomb that we had to use it. If you will read carefully the story of how the decision was made you will find that a little more conscience on the part of the people who have been deeply involved could have changed the course of history and could have ended the war with a bloodless demonstration." Teller said this is the kind of mistake which must be avoided in the future and maintained that scientists must speak out against the misuse of scientific knowledge.

He elaborated further on the use of the atomic bomb in 1945 when he told of his decision to question government policy whenever he felt it was morally wrong. He explained that a few months before the bomb was exploded Leo Sillard asked him to endorse and to get others to endorse a statement that the bomb should be demonstrated before it was used.

He went to his superior at the Los Alamos center, Robert J. Oppenheimer, who said that it was not the scientists who should question government policy, so Teller decided not to sign the statement. On August 6 Hiroshima was bombed.

"I don't believe that I am more clever than others; but in a strange manner I don't believe that others are more clever than I am," he concluded.

SC Amendments

shall be the Student Council Committee Representatives from the various areas. The Chairman of the Committee is to be selected from said representatives and to be appointed by the President of the Student Council and approved by a majority of the Student Council members present and voting. The President of the Council shall serve on this committee as an ex officio member but he shall have no vote.

Section III: Procedures

This Committee shall meet on the call of its Chairman or the Student Council and it shall hold at least one meeting each month during the Spring and Fall semesters. The meetings of this Committee shall be open to anyone.

The Chairman of this Committee shall see that a written record of each of the Committee's meetings be kept, and he shall report to the Council in the form of said record and answer any and all questions posed to him by the Council members.

Before the Committee publishes any reports, it must first report to the Council for its approval and acceptance of such report. The publishing of such report shall be under the direct control of the Student Council.

The Committee shall follow the rules and stipulations in this related appendix in all its activities unless the Council determines otherwise by a majority vote of the members present and voting.

Woodcuts, Sentiment Displayed at Library

By Marya Grambs

FRANK B. HAND, JR., a University alumnus, recently presented the University the collection of 12 works displayed on the first and second floors of the University Library.

Hand is a lawyer specializing in transportation and is an art collector.

The five compositions on the first floor are colorful and on the whole rather interesting. Most notable is a large colored woodcut, "Dance of the Orange" by Tom Cranmer, which however is not the slightest bit orange. It is a study in greens -- gray greens, blue greens, pine greens -- showing two floating, yearning (green) figures, whose body proportions are distorted and wavy.

They are seemingly swimming underwater; the whole woodcut has black sketchy horizontal lines throughout, which increase the appearance of being underwater. I don't understand the point of the title, and the scene remains somewhat of a mystery.

"Scaffolding" by Fred Becker is a line engraving, and far less interesting. It is an abstract study in black and white, utilizing primarily curvy lines with contrasting textures filling the spaces formed. I saw no scaffolding (indeed I didn't see much); I really was not impressed.

The remaining seven works on display upstairs, taken as a whole, are in complete contrast to those downstairs: very small, intricate, bland -- romantic scenery details and maps and other precious pictures. It was a disappointment. The one exception was a surprise in many ways: "Portrait of a Man" by Norman Rockwell. It's obviously an early Rockwell, in the light of his insipid, syrupy sweet sentimental little scenes of families sitting in front of juicy turkeys praying, contemporarily being displayed on POST magazine covers.

A glowing study in variations of browns, this oil is an impressionistic presentation of a man in riding clothes sprawled out all over a chair and table, mostly the table. The subject reminds me of pictures I've seen of Rockwell himself (in advertisements recruiting potential artists to enroll in correspondence art courses) -- long and thin body and face, with pipe. The painting is very warm and spontaneous; it's really not bad at all, but I can't quite bring myself to commend a Rockwell.

FRED BECKER'S line engraving "Scaffolding" at the Library.

3rd's the Charm: Glen Yarborough At Feb. Concert

TALENT for the Inaugural Concert on Feb. 12 has once more been changed because of unpredictable events. Glenn Yarborough, pop-folk singer, has now been signed because the Brothers Four canceled their contract.

The Brothers Four were contracted after Ian and Sylvia were forced to cancel because Sylvia was pregnant. The Brothers Four canceled when they received an offer to appear on the Bell Telephone Hour. Taping of the concert occurs the same night as the concert.

According to their contract, a nationwide television offer is a valid reason for cancellation if the group in question gives at least four weeks notice.

Faced with the problem of finding new talent, the Student Council committee working on the concert contacted two other agents in New York but most groups were already booked for that evening.

One agent was able to obtain Yarborough. Also included with Yarborough are a comedian and a jazz quartet.

Performance Notes

Students, professors, and members of the administrative staff of the University are invited to attend a presentation of the film "Maria Stuart" this Saturday at 7:30 pm in the faculty conference room on the fifth floor of the University Library.

This is a black-and-white film, of professional quality, featuring the Burgtheater ensemble of Vienna. Since the dialogue is in German and there are no English subtitles, a member of the Department of Germanic Languages and Literatures will give a brief introduction in English, to enable those unfamiliar with Friedrich Schiller's drama to follow the plot.

Boris Gutnikov, Soviet violinist, will play the Khachaturian's Concerto with the Washington National Symphony, conducted by Howard Mitchell, Tuesday and Wednesday, Jan. 18 and 19, 8:30 pm in Constitution Hall, and Thurs., Jan. 18 at 2 pm in Lisner Auditorium.

Gutnikov will also perform with the symphony for the Sunday Family Concert, January 23 at 4 p.m. in Constitution Hall, playing the Tchaikovsky Concerto in an All-Tchaikovsky program conducted by Howard Mitchell.

Gutnikov made his American orchestral debut with the National Symphony in April of 1963 after winning the Tchaikovsky Competition in Moscow in 1962. Since his graduation from the Rimsky-Korsakov Conservatory in 1954, he has won every major European prize for his violin playing, including the 1957 Jacques Thibaud competition in Paris. He began his studies at the age of five in Leningrad.

"Leyte Filipiniana", a folk dance troupe from the Philippines, will perform at Lisner Auditorium, 21st and H Sts. NW, Jan. 19, 20 and 21 at 8:30 p.m. There will also be a special children's matinee on Jan. 21 at 3:30 p.m.

They are performing in Washington under the patronage of His Excellency Oscar Ledesma, Ambassador of the Philippines. The performances are being presented through the cooperation of the Irish Sisters of Mercy of Tacloban City, Leyte, Philippines; the D.C. Recreation Department, and George Washington University.

Culturally Speaking

A Writer, Plays, Movies and TV

By Berl Brechner
Cultural Affairs Editor

IN AN INTERVIEW with Loring Mandel, the playwright of Arena Stage's current production "Project Immortality," representatives from Georgetown and American Universities and I found a captivating, hardworking and interesting personality.

Mandel has written for many of television's important dramatic shows since serving in the armed forces during the Korean War. He also wrote the stage adaptation of "Advise and Consent" which played at the National Theater here in Washington before its Broadway run.

He has been in residence at Arena Stage during rehearsal of his play under a Ford Foundation grant. Mandel says that he enjoys working at Arena. Its pressures are different from the New York stage, he stated. He noted that whether his play gets good or bad reviews, it has a set five-week run.

Writing was once a hobby for Mandel and is now his profession. He had written two plays before he finished grammar school.

In discussing the state of theater, he feels that most of the art now goes into the movies, not theater. He then noted the rather miserable Broadway season. As far as morality and decency on stage go, he advocates complete freedom but, if necessary, an absolute minimum of legislation. He believes that through the publicity given to plays, the viewer ought to be able to decide whether he feels he wants to see the play.

Mandel has difficulty in accepting writing as his profession. He feels that he is living in a fantasy world and will have to settle down someday and take a job like normal people.

Mandel now lives with his wife and two sons in Huntington, Long Island, New York.

THERE HAS BEEN a lot of valid criticism lately about commercial television. Bad programming is especially noticeable this season and advertising looks like it has been designed to sell products to three-year-olds.

A recent TIME magazine article pointed out that about the only places where a bit of intellectual or good television is to be found is on the UHF (Ultra High Frequency) stations operating on channels 14-22 throughout the U.S.

Washington has a non-profit, non-commercial, community-owned and operated UHF station, WETA-TV channel 26. It offers programs in art, drama, music, science, public affairs, instruction and special programs directed at adults, young people, and children.

Since the station carries no advertising announcements, a major portion of its income must come from voluntary, tax-deductible contributions.

Boxwood Company Opens With cummings' 'him'

THE BOXWOOD THEATER Company has opened its second season with the e.e. cummings play "him." Performances are being held at the Grace Church, 1041 Wisconsin Avenue in Georgetown.

Cummings theater is the theater of cummings, sparking electricity, bewilderingly sensible, sharp and comic. The plot deals with the relationship between a man, him, and his woman, me. Him is a playwright and in the second act the play he is writing is observed. Him's play is caught up in the cummings style of vaudeville. The world of "him" is turned upside down until the "real" world seems backwards and all its inhabitants, lopsided and laughable.

Their second production, "A Phoenix too Frequent," is Christopher Fry's amused squint at death and the faithfulness of women. The faithful widow makes ready to join her deceased husband, but life, in the form of a virulent young soldier, calls her away from the tomb. Tombs, coffins, mourners and seven corpses are the subjects of Fry's cracking verse-comedy.

The third play of the season is a high-style, bang-the-gun french farce: "Let's Get a Divorce" by Sardou, the master of farce style. All the inhabitants of a small French town are awaiting the official word from Paris: Will the divorce law be passed? Someone brings false rumors and the town romps under false hope. Lovers become husbands and husbands, lovers... all become engaged to be loved.

The season will close with a double bill of "The Lesson" by Eugene Ionesco and "3,000 Red Ants" by Lawrence Ferlinghetti. Ionesco stretches the student-teacher relationship until it assumes the shape of a power struggle between tyrant and populace, murderer and victim, parent and child, and man and woman. Ferlinghetti's play takes place by the seashore. The two characters weave out their story in bed. The story is 3000 human red ants.

"Him" will continue tomorrow and run through Sunday. For reservations and information, call 333-2334.

A Mortal Production

By Berl Brechner

A FINE SEASON of theater presented so far at the Arena Stage has been bogged down by its current offering, "Project Immortality," which opened last Thursday.

This may show that what is a good idea for a one-and-a-half hour television drama does not necessarily make a good play when an extra hour and fifteen minutes is added.

The playwright, Loring Mandel, has been working with Arena on this one for about two years. With broad experience in television and theater writing, his ideas for this play were started in 1955 and presented in a Playhouse 90 television drama in 1959. "Project Immortality," with this production at Arena, makes its world premiere.

But the play does not flow. Early in the first act, the problem is given, and soon afterwards a method is found for its solution. From then on, character development and changes run rampant and are exposed through extraneous incidents which break into the movement of the play.

The subject of the drama is old but always timely--immortality. But it is treated realistically and made plausible. "Electronic immortality" is sought by the Defense Department for Larry Doner, a genius scientist dying of an incurable disease. After his death, his knowledge would be engineered into a computer and his genius would continue to be available for the use of the Defense Department.

Martin Schramm is the representative from the Department who comes to the Doner home with his proposition and a battery of tests for Larry.

The main conflict of the play revolves around the scientist's objection to the use of his brain without his personal "controlling factor." He would not be able to determine for what purposes his fantastic mind could be used.

One other conflict with the proposal comes when Larry finds out that in order for the program to be successful, he would have to devote almost all his time to the project during the six months prior to his death. He sees this as a ridiculous waste of time because he has so much to complete before he dies.

Conflicts within the scientist's family also come into play. Larry must prove his devotion to wife and children and work to get their acceptance of the proposal.

Despite the weakness of the drawn-out script, an impressive, impassioned acting job is turned out by Dana Elcar as the scientist. He is a real character -- a man of great mind and eccentricities -- and a good deal of credit for the part must go to the writer of the play.

On the other hand, the representative from the Defense Department, played by Ted D'Arms, is shallow, irrational, and unthinking. These inherent flaws, along with the fact that his mind is constantly on the project and completely closed to most other happenings, make him an object to be pitied.

One notoriously poor acting effort was turned in by Jon Voight as the scientist's son. His appearance was much too old for the part and his lines were delivered with a drabness that lent absolutely nothing to the importance of the part.

Director Edwin Sherwin has done a fair job of presenting what is there, but writer Mandel has not done justice to his ideas. His obviously keen interest in his subject matter is shown in an extensive dissertation about computers and man in his program notes. But the subject matter in this play does not seem to warrant the amount of attention devoted to it.

The Arena Stage production of "Project Immortality" definitely lacks the thrill and impact that should be involved in theater-going.

$750 Scholarships Offered In Art, Music and Drama

THE WASHINGTON CHAPTER of The National Society of Arts and Letters has announced the offer of three $750 scholarships to talented students in the greater Washington area in the field of art, drama and music.

Mrs. Charles King Holmes, chapter president, said that a distinguished panel of judges will serve for each competition.

Art students must be between the ages of 17 and 26, and must submit 3 paintings and 3 drawings. Deadline for the return of the required application forms is Jan. 31. For details and application blanks contact Mrs. T. Douglas Noble, 4410 Macomb St., NW, Washington, D.C. Judging will be in February.

Drama students must be between the ages of 18 and 24, and must present one required passage and one of the student's choosing. Feb. 15 is the deadline for the return of the application forms. Details and application forms for the acting scholarship may be obtained from Mrs. Paul W. Phillips, 107 Wolftrap Rd.,

SE, Vienna, Virginia. Competition will be the end of February or early in March.

Voice students must be between the ages of 18 and 26. There is a required repertoire. Feb. 1 is the deadline for the return of application forms. Contact Mrs. H. Russell Bishop, 2235 Q St., NW, Washington, D.C. for details and application forms. The voice competition will be in March.

The National Society of Arts and Letters is an organization of American men and women who are engaged professionally in one or more of the creative arts or who are actively sponsoring the work of young artists. The organization is dedicated to encouraging and assisting promising students of the creative arts by giving scholarships in art, drama, music, literature and music.

The Washington chapter of NSAL has given more scholarships than any of the other chapters, helping well over 100 students, giving scholarship grants totaling over $100,000.

Wierd Art Form Invades D.C.

A NEW EXHIBITION, "Two Kinetic Sculptors: Nicolas Schoffer and Jean Tinguely" opens Jan. 14 with a preview for the members of the Washington Gallery of Modern Art and continues through Feb. 20. The exhibition contains motion sculptures, drawings and some architectural projects by two leaders of the kinetic movement.

The exhibition is essentially a two-man retrospective in depth and Schoffer and Tinguely are shown in a sequence of works that begins with their first motion sculptures of the early fifties and continues through their most recent work including a number of pieces done for this exhibition.

Among these is a dramatic and comical "Dissecting Machine" by Tinguely which saws and hacks its way through a dismembered mannequin to the accompaniment of a deafening clamor of motor noises. Schoffer's new work includes a seven-foot high pyramid of mirrors called "Infinite Prism" that reflects to infinity the light projections of one of his automated sculptures, "Lux II". For Schoffer and Tinguely, the machine and our technological civilization is the basis of their work.

At the age of 40, Tinguely is the most youthful pioneer of the European "kinetic" revival, and began to make motorized sculpture under the mixed influence of Calder and Duchamp in Paris in 1953. He has been described humorously, in a BBC documentary broadcast, as "the big wheel of the Movement Movement." His "meta-matic drawing machines" (one of which is included in the exhibition) gained public notice in 1959. These ingenious devices mass-produced abstract paintings and drawings in the prevailing "automatic" style of the period, once a coin was inserted and activated the machine.

Tinguely is best known perhaps for the machine, "Homage to New York," which dramatically destroyed itself in the Museum of Modern Art garden five years ago. His recent work has moved toward greater solemnity and generally avoids the carnival spirit and iconoclasm of the past.

Of Hungarian origin, Schoffer

Tryouts Coming For 'Angel'; Players Honored

THE UNIVERSITY PLAYERS announce tryouts for the spring drama, "Look Homeward, Angel."

Tryouts are open to all GW students and will be held from 8 to 11 Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday Jan. 31, Feb. 1 and 2 in Studio A of Lisner Auditorium. Call-backs will be Thursday, Feb. 3, and the cast will be announced on Fri., Feb. 4. The first read-through will be that evening.

"Look Homeward, Angel" is the dramatization of the Thomas Wolfe classic adapted by Miss Ketti Frings. It won a Pulitzer Prize and the New York Drama Critics Award in 1958. The story is set in North Carolina, 1916, and centers around the turbulent lives of the members of the Gant family.

Ten male and nine female parts will be cast. Scripts are available from the director, Arthur N. Athanason, in Lisner Auditorium, rm. 1. Athanason directed last fall's homecoming musical, "The King and I" and the recent children's theater success, "Winnie the Pooh," which played to sellout audiences at Lisner last month.

Also, several technical positions are open: lighting designer, property master, and sound technician. Interested students may acquire further information by calling the dramatic activities office, University ext. 724.

The University Chapter of the National Collegiate Players inducted four members last Wednesday in a ceremony at Lisner Auditorium. The new members are Judith King, Mary Lincer, Phyllis Rice, and Priscilla Smith.

National Collegiate Players is an honorary college fraternity which aims to encourage participation in all phases of drama on the campus--playwriting, acting, and technical and academic work.

Students wishing to be accepted must have a high scholastic average as well as considerable participation in several areas of dramatic activity. Initiates are expected to aim for excellent quality in all their theatrical endeavors.

The new members are now in a brotherhood whose members include their faculty advisers, Dr. L. Poe Leggett and Mr. Arthur N. Athanason, as well as such theatre greats as Helen Hayes, Tyrone Power, Charles Laughton, Ida Lupino, Thornton Wilder, and Ethel Waters.

The University Chapter of the National Collegiate Players was chartered in 1945.

THE SCIENTIST'S WIFE, played by Dorothea Hammond, prepared for "Project Immortality" at Arena Stage.

Editorials

What Is the Reason?

WHAT IS THE PURPOSE of the University's mandatory class attendance rules?

Certainly, such rules can not be designed to protect the student, for the only students who are benefitted by being required to attend classes are those who, because of their lack of intellectual interest and curiosity, derive little from classroom attendance anyway and actually act as a drag on their fellow students. Rather than trying to legislate knowledge into this group of so-called students, perhaps all would be better off if they were simply allowed to flunk out if unable to learn self-discipline.

Few would claim that the purpose of such rules is to protect the professors. The only professors who are aided by such requirements are the poor ones, who are insured against the embarrassment of a classroom quickly made empty upon the students' recognition of the professors' poor lecturing ability. Such professors would quickly learn to mold their material into a more interesting or beneficial form once they realized that no one found attendance either interesting or necessary to pass the course.

Finally, mandatory attendance can not be justified in terms of its benefit to the University. Such a rule brings in no additional revenue, rarely forces a student to learn, and, in some cases, takes time away from the more able students—time which could be better spent in independent research and study.

Indeed, what is the purpose of the University's mandatory class attendance rules?

A Chance To Act...

ALL DURING THE YEAR the cry is heard at the University that the Student Council does not represent the school but only a narrow, selfish minority clique.

However, this is the time of the year when the sincerity of these objectors is put to the test. Especially with the increase in the size of the Council to 31 members and the addition of dormitory and commuter representatives this year, there is far more that interested individuals can do for the student body than simply bemoaning the lack of quality in the Council.

Petitioning for Council offices will be held from Jan. 27 to Feb. 4. Those students who feel that the Council should be improved should not simply complain, but ought to run for office and try themselves to increase the quality of our student government.

Those who protest that they are "not politicians" ought to realize that perhaps what GW needs is more Council members who really care and fewer "politicians."

Out of Balance

Letters to the Editor

Letters to the editor must be submitted to the editor's office by 1 pm Friday in order to be included in the paper the following Tuesday. All letters must be typed on a sixty-space line, double spaced, and include the writer's name, college division and year. Letters should not be longer than a page and a half. Names will be withheld upon request.)

'Hoodwinked' Voters

To the Editor:

IS THE STUDENT BODY going to allow itself to be hoodwinked once again? Will it continue to elect "coalition" candidates to office only to find that its trust has once again been misplaced?

Freshman Director Richard Harrison, an independent, has announced his candidacy for the office of Student Council President. He has admitted his candidacy openly, and has shown a willingness to discuss issues and to continue to work for the betterment of the student body here at GW.

Contrast this with the as yet secret intentions of the "coalition's" candidate for president—a nonentity by the name of Joe Farina! Mr. Farina has done very little for the student body in his career at GW, unless one wishes to count his attendance at closed-door, secretive political wheeling and dealing sessions.

But for this the "coalition" has rewarded him with its support for the office of president. Mr. Harrison has worked hard for the student body; Mr. Farina has done little but lick the boots of a small and selfish minority clique on campus.

Will the student body allow itself to continue to be abused?

Health Facilities-Ha!

To the Editor:

SOMETHING IS WRONG somewhere, and I just got the brunt of it. Beware, students, forewarned is forearmed.

Recently, I left the locked doorway of the student health center—it was Sunday—for the GW Hospital. I had swollen glands in the neck, and I feared mono. At the small office of the emergency room I gave my name, address, etc., and was asked to wait for a few minutes. After a twenty minute wait, I was ushered into the emergency room, and spent five minutes having my temperature and blood pressure taken. I was then asked to undress and wait for a doctor. I waited, and an hour and twenty-five minutes later a doctor arrived. I saw how crowded the place was, and I suppressed my complaints. The doctor tapped and poked here and there and then informed me that I had some swollen glands and should report to the health service on Monday. In the meantime I had expired the time limit for a food service meal, so I had to eat at Bassin's.

Later I received a bill from the hospital for six dollars for "emergency room." I can take my own temperature; if given the instruments; I can take my own blood pressure; and I told the doctor I had swollen glands. At three dollars for five minutes of service, we must have the wealthiest doctors in the East here.

Happy Deficit!

To the Editor:

IN THE DEC. 14 HATCHET, I read that the Student Council is trying to get the Brothers Four for Spring Concert. I am once again disappointed in the Student Council's choice of entertainment. I have nothing particular against the Brothers Four and I like folksinging, but I am disturbed by the Council's insistence on folksingers at every concert. It seems that the rest of the entertainment world is forgotten. After losing close to a thousand dollars with two folk acts at Fall Concert, you'd think that the Student Council would learn by its mistakes, and turn toward some other form of entertainment. What is even more ridiculous is that the HATCHET'S article states that "It is hoped by Council members that Spring Concert will be a large source of Student Council revenue." You must be dreaming!

Although the Council probably thought that he was a folksinger when it hired him, Bill Cosby, a comedian, was a smashing success at last year's Spring Concert. I venture to say that a repeat performance by Cosby, or a performance by any comedian of his popularity and stature, would be a sellout. Despite the success of a comedian, the Council seems to have ruled out a comedy act as a possible headliner, not to mention a popular singer, jazz combo, or any other kind of entertainment. What is the Council's motto, "Don't knock failure?"

Since the Student Council succeeded in losing about $650 in theft, and $936 through Fall Concert, it appears that its program of planned bankruptcy will continue on its merry way, with the Brothers Four, or Ian and Sylvia, or Odette, or with the "fabulous" Little Royal and the Swingmasters.

Happy deficit!

Hobbs' Blindness

To the Editor:

I WISH TO COMMENT on the double-talk of some Bill Hobbs, who reverses facts to accuse the administration of double-talk ("Newspeak" Haunts the News," HATCHET, Dec. 7.)

He likes to establish the thought that the administration claims to want Vietnam negotiations while refusing them. Then he calls the U. S. stand "double-talk" and proceeds on a screed in which McNamara is called "Big Brother" and a liar, the English language is changing to "newspeak" to suit the party in power, and "1984" is not so far away.

In my view, the administration is entirely true to its word; it wants unconditional discussions and refuses conditional discussions—especially when the conditions are surrender.

Hobbs creates his own double-talk by quoting the administration's readiness for unconditional discussions and then ignoring the word, "unconditional," to suit his own emotional ends.

He is probably still irked that the U. S. did not thank U. Thant and negotiate when the U. S. position was nice and weak.

Responsibilities

To the Editor:

MANY STUDENTS at this and other universities were shocked at action taken recently in Ann Arbor, Michigan. Most of us find this action to be excessive in light of the seemingly mild offense by the students. One wonders, however, if these protesters were serious students. Precious moments of time and ergs of energy expended by the students could have been spent studying the books. Surely daddy's hard earned money must go for something better.

The gains to be won by such protesting were certainly outweighed by the advantages to be gained in serious study. It must have been obvious to the draft board that if these students had the time to protest Uncle Sam they also had the time to serve him. It is admitted that the action of the selective service was somewhat premature. Had the draft board only waited for the end of the semester these "sit ins" would probably have become "flunk outs" and the U. S. Army could do something worthwhile with them.

Thanks

To the Editor:

THE GEORGE WASHINGTON University Children's Theatre Guild and the University Players would like to thank all people whose contributions made benefit performances of Winnie the Pooh possible.

The money we received made it a merry Christmas for children not so fortunate. And we thank you!

Schools Must Decentralize Or Smother True Learning

HERE ARE SOME NOTES I prepared for a philosophical symposium on "Freedom and Order: Focus on the University" (Conference at Western Reserve-Case Institute, in Cleveland). My position is classical anarchism.

Freedom and Order are not dialectical or polar, but are related as cause and consequence. Right order is the form of free functioning. The conflicts that arise in freedom usually produce creative solutions. But imposed "order" is chaos, and administered "harmony" destroys function and produces inanition.

In our present educational practice, we observe the following destructive impositions: 1. School methods appropriate for children are extended to high school and college years and hinder maturation. 2. Restriction to schooling as the one institution for education and growing up results in miseducation for, probably, eighty per cent, including most of the bright. 3. Academic methods and environment take the life out of subjects and activities that are not properly academic. 4. Imposed schedules and the extrinsic motivation of grading hinder learning, which is always a concrete process and often individual in time and style. Most schooling makes people stupid. 5. When teaching and learning are harnessed beforehand to extrinsic National goals and the drive to union cards and licenses, the result is role-playing rather than task.

It is better, with all deliberate speed, to let the present university structures fall apart into their simpler communities and for their order to be reconstituted according to functions of immediate teaching and learning and the intrinsic motivations of teachers and students. (This does not necessarily mean scattering the populations. A university city of many thousands has great advantages. It does mean radically decentralizing the administration.)

A. In educational (rather than school) policy, we ought: 1. To open a variety of ways of being educated. E.g. academic, apprentice, technical training administered by corporations, self-study, work in subsidized non-commercial real cultural enterprises, collegiate experience for the non-verbal and even illiterate (as in the Danish Folk High Schools), etc. There should be public support of universal education, but only a small part of the money given to school administrators. 2. To open numerous opportunities for leaving and re-entry, to encourage trying out and maturation at one's own tempo.

B. In school policy, teaching and learning is a complex ethical and psychological relation, but it is sociologically quite simple, consisting of small face-to-face communities. Therefore, 1. Drop all administrative machinery of admissions, requirements, grading, etc. Restore these functions to teachers and students. The functions of administration are janitorial, bookkeeping, and protecting the educational community in the general society. 2. Make the small communities entirely self-governing in both academic and social matters. 3. Let curriculum be determined by what teachers want to teach. By confrontation with free teachers, students will soonest find themselves and learn what is relevant or irrelevant to their own interests. 4. When a student finds a subject interesting to himself, let him demand that the teaching meet his present needs and prepare him for the uses that he wants to make of his studies in the future. Such demand by the student reinvigorates the teacher and makes his thought relevant to the present and future. 5. These two principles, of faculty judgment of importance and student demand for preparation for life, are sufficient to relate school and society. Society will then get the best use of its universities as providing earnest and intrinsically motivated professionals, experts, and scholars.

Our present educational abuses are due to the imperialism of extra-mural demands and of the School establishment that seeks to aggrandize itself. A result is the immense inflation of educational costs. I estimate the mark-up as 3 to 400 percent; it is expensive to try to cement parts that do not naturally cohere, and to pay for administration that is fundamentally irrelevant.

By its peculiar double-think, the School establishment will agree to most of the above propositions. (Indeed, they are the truisms of Lehrfreiheit and Lernfreiheit.) And nevertheless, the present practices will be maintained and become worse. The inevitable crises will be met by adding new levels of superstructure -- e.g. Guidance or Honors Courses -- without changing any of the mistaken, but administratively profitable, premises.

The Crisis Papers

'In America The Law Is King'

By Paul Panitz

"...LET A DAY be solemnly set apart for proclaiming the Charter; let it be brought forth placed on the divine law, the Word of God; let a crown be placed thereon, by which the world may know that so far as we approve of monarchy, that in America THE LAW IS KING."

"THE LAW IS KING," said Tom Paine, and he was our greatest revolutionary. His words are the essence of American government, a government of laws created by representatives of the people, enforced by a president and interpreted by the courts. Men have fought and they have died; they fought not just because they were ordered to fight, but they fought for a country they loved. Any American who does not believe that the most noble sacrifice he can make is for his country, needs to re-examine his values.

"THIS LETTER IS TO NOTIFY YOU THAT THIS OFFICE HAS RECEIVED ANOTHER REPORTED CLASS ABSENCE FOR YOU AS OF THIS DATE WHICH AUTOMATICALLY PLACES YOU ON PROBATION. ADDITIONAL CLIN WILL MOST SERIOUSLY JEOPARDIZE YOUR STANDING UNLESS YOU TAKE IMMEDIATE STEPS TO

The concept of law is also one of sacrifice. Every man must forfeit the smallest amount of his freedom, not really to his government, but to other men. This is the price society demands of those who share her benefits, for an individual's rights extend only as far as his neighbor's fence. He cannot trample his neighbor's flowers or burn his neighbor's barn without rightfully expecting appropriate punishment. Neither can Joan Baez block the White House driveway or Pennsylvania Avenue without being prepared for the full brunt of the law.

Laws are not made to be broken; they are made to be changed. Thus, a law should be broken only when it is to be tested in the courts. Mass violations are not for test purposes. They are only a disregard for law, and that is anarchy. Anarchy can never rule, for government and law are natural institutions of all men.

But some demonstrators in this country, particularly the more radical ones, rely heavily upon disregard for law, or civil disobedience, as a publicity gimmick. They believe it is a way of gaining attention for their protest. Yet they also state that their goal is to change the law by refusing to obey it.

A philosopher is not needed to point out the inherent danger of such an attitude. Representatives are elected by the people to make the laws; they also have the power to change them. The courts have the power to invalidate these laws. Any other method of change is extra-constitutional.

If one law is not respected, why not another? Martin Luther King says that one's conscience is above the law. Can a nation or a government long stand with such a philosophy? Demonstrators who morally objected to segregation laws in Southern states, broke those laws. What would they say if Southerners who morally objected to the Civil Rights Act of 1964 did not respect its provisions?

Without any doubt, the same pro-civil rights demonstrators would then demand that the Federal Government intervene to stop the "wanton disregard for law." In fact, this is what has happened. Whose morality is right?

No individual's morality is right, for every individual has a different standard. If every citizen used his conscience as the only law, there would be no order. If a man killed his neighbor because his conscience told him it was right, would it be legitimate for him to face prosecution?

Government is the central and guiding moral force. Morality is transformed into law. Law becomes not the morality of one individual, but of all individuals considered together. And as a nation's ideas of behavior and of right and wrong change, so do laws. In other words, morality is ultimately and most effectively expressed in law, not by lawless street demonstrations.

Laws are changed through the framework of stable government. Representative government is not noted for its speed in effecting change, but who among us wants a dictatorship or oligarchy, which can move more quickly?

Certainly there is no citizen without complaints about his government and its laws. But to violate the law in protest is a childish action. Because society is composed of so many different groups and elements, it is natural that some groups may temporarily not gain their full rights. It is a dynamic society like our own, that corrects these injustices within the framework of existing government and legal precedent -- and without revolution.

In the Declaration of Independence, Jefferson wrote that a "long train of abuses and usurpations... (designed) to reduce (the colonies) under absolute despotism" made American independence imperative. But he also wrote: "Prudence, indeed, will dictate that governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes..."

The writings of Paine and Jefferson are still clear, even in a modern context: civil disobedience, placing morality above law, is not an inherent privilege in a country with truly representative government.

So that the author's position may be clear, he wishes to emphasize his belief that protest is healthy and necessary. He opposes only those who violate the law, using the threat of anarchy to impose their morality.

Let the responsible and lawful protests continue. Let every citizen stand up for his individual liberties and the liberties of those around him. An injustice to any one person or any minority group is like a bruise on a perfect fruit; it darkens and spreads until the entire fruit is rotten. Let every citizen realize that a nation of sheep cannot guard its liberties. But let us all remember that "In America THE LAW IS KING."

Grading System

Abolishment Problems Listed

By Kathryn Soderberg

(CPS) - If grades are generally acknowledged to be an inadequate measure of a student's achievement, especially in areas of creativity and initiative; if they lead to a distortion of the educational process, replacing intellectual curiosity with memory-cramming and luck; if their over-emphasis leads to psychological and sometimes actual illness -- then why do not more colleges and universities eliminate or modify their grading systems in favor of a broader form of evaluation?

Two objections persist when discussing the possible elimination of grades:

A thorough verbal evaluation, such as that given at Bennington and Sarah Lawrence is time-consuming and expensive. It is feasible at these two colleges because of the small enrollments and faculties which are willing to spend the necessary time. As the size of the college increases, this form of evaluation would become more and more impracticable.

Graduate schools tend to insist on the need for grades in determining admission, although some admit that they could reluctantly learn to do without them. Many of these same graduate schools no longer issue grades once the student is admitted. Most graduate schools have learned to compensate for the variations in computing grades among various colleges, but they quake in consternation at the thought of interpreting a multitude of vague evaluations.

A college which changes to a verbal evaluation instead of the conventional grades runs the very real risk that its students may be discriminated against in the competition for graduate school and other awards, whether such discrimination be intentional or unintentional.

Lawrence W. Hanlon, M.D., director of admissions, Cornell University Medical College, has said: "In my experience with some of these unusual methods of reporting academic standing, there is frequently so much uncertainty about a student's academic ability that he simply can't be considered for admission."

The University of Minnesota's Prof. Louis T. Safer who conducted a recent grading experiment in the university's general college, reports encountering a similar difficulty. General College has tried experimenting with many types of grading systems over the years, Safer said, but always it runs into the problem of interpreting the results within the university framework. How, for instance, are various unusual evaluations to be interpreted in determining whether a student has met the requirements for graduation or for transferring to another college?

Regarding changes in the grading system, the Conference on College Grading systems noted: "Conversations are still going on; inquiries are still being received. Much detailed discussion is in order; research is sorely needed. Some colleges, it is hoped, will experiment. Grades will not soon be abandoned -- but their dominion is challenged."

While encouraging further experimentation, two more immediate steps can be taken to modify the damaging effects of an obsession with grades:

1) Grades should be de-emphasized as an end in themselves. They must be recognized as only one measure of a student's achievement, a measure which by itself cannot be the absolute criterion for rewards and privileges, whether academic or otherwise.

2) Whenever possible, the cryptic letter grade should be supplemented with a further evaluation of the student's strengths and weaknesses, to offer a more complete picture of his intellectual growth.

Help Wanted...

HELP WANTED: The HATCHET needs more photographers, reporters, copy readers and headline writers. All students interested in working on the HATCHET should come to the HATCHET office 2127 G St. and fill out a staff card.

HATCHET staff members are also reminded that they should come to the office and fill out a new staff card with their spring semester schedules on it.

Activities Manual Now Available

THE STUDENT ACTIVITIES Office Manual for 1965 is in circulation and is being distributed to each organization on campus. Its purpose is to help the various organizations and activities in planning, according to Terry Hohman, Student Activities Coordinator.

Hohman stated that certain criteria should be fundamental to the establishment of an organization's goals and purposes. "Each student participating in activities should keep in mind that his organization is responsible first to The George Washington University, and second to the individual members and itself," Hohman said.

The manual, prepared by seventeen students and Hohman, describes activity chairmanships including how to apply, responsibilities involved and activities for which chairmen are needed.

The mechanics of reserving rooms in Superdorm, Lisner Auditorium, and other campus buildings are described in the booklet. The "Publicity Procedures" section describes how to get use of the bulletin boards, tree boards, and blackboards for announcements of student activities.

Procedures for obtaining announcements through the University Public Relations Office, the HATCHET and over radio station WRGW are also explained.

At the end of the manual is a section describing the procedures for forming a new campus organization. Students who wish to form an organization must first submit an application to the Student Council before any of the University's name or facilities can be used.

Approval or provisional recognition of an organization gives it the privileges of using the University name, the resources of the Student Activities Office, the University buildings and facilities, and the various publicity channels of the University, including the HATCHET.

Students Eligible To Apply For Summer Jobs Abroad

WORK FOR STUDENTS is available this summer in Germany, Austria, Sweden, Denmark, Norway, Ireland, Switzerland, England, France, Italy and Holland.

This year the American-European Student Service is offering jobs to students in areas including child care (females only), farming, hotels (limited number available) and construction as well as other jobs requiring more specialized training.

These opportunities have been opened by the consent of the various governments. The purpose of the program is to afford students an opportunity to gain contact with the people and customs of Europe. Emolument will consist of room and board plus European wages. The working conditions--hours, safety, regulations, legal protection, work permits--will be strictly controlled by the labor ministries of the countries involved.

For further information and applications write to American-European Student Service, Via Santorre Santarosa 23, Florence, Italy.

New Wing Dedicated At University Hospital

THE EUGENE MEYER Pavilion of The University Hospital will be dedicated on Jan. 21, with tributes to the late Washington Post publisher whose name it bears.

Mrs. Eugene Meyer, Speaker of the House of Representatives John McCormack and Senator Alan Bible have been invited to attend. University President Lloyd H. Elliott and Medical School Dean John Parks will speak briefly.

Speaker McCormack introduced and sponsored the House bill and Senator Bible the Senate bill signed by President Kennedy as Public Law #460, which provided $2 1/2 million toward the construction costs. The pen used in the signing and letters from President Kennedy and Representative McCormack to the late GW President Thomas H. Carroll will be on display.

Legislators, leading members of government and the health professions closely associated with the development of the Hospital and School of Medicine will attend the dedication, along with sponsors of endowed rooms or of special equipment.

Total cost of the Pavilion, along with air conditioning and remodeling of the present Hospital, is approximately $7 1/2 million. Government assistance of more than $3 million -- the construction grant, additional Hill-Burton funds and existing HEW-Public Health Service programs for research facilities -- was more than matched by generous sums from the University, Mrs. Meyer, the Meyer Foundation, local benefactors and gifts from more than six hundred sponsors.

One entire floor will be devoted to research, pure as well as clinical. Items like the six million-volt linear accelerator for x-ray therapy, the radio-isotope laboratory, operating theaters with overhead observation galleries and in-out surgical suites for minor and oral surgery are included.

However, the ribbon cutting ceremony opening the five floor facilities will not signal immediate expansion to total capacity because the present hospital will be remodeled and centrally air conditioned as new areas are made available.

The project is due for completion in about 18 months. At that time the full capacity is expected to be: 540 beds, doubled laboratory space, more than doubled x-ray area and equipment, improved supporting facilities (pathology, physical medicine, pharmacy, central supply, heart station, electroencephalography, artificial kidney, improved employee facilities, central food service and, most important to its mission as a University Hospital, greatly improved clinical teaching and research resources.

On Jan. 22 Hospital officials will conduct tours for the public from 2 to 4 pm.

Alphabetical System Tested

Registration Starts Jan. 27

REGISTRATION for the spring semester will be divided into three days with students registering alphabetically according to the new system.

Students whose last names begin with L to Z will register Jan. 27. Students whose last names begin with A to K will register Jan. 28. All students not registered on Thursday or Friday will register Jan. 29.

On the first day of registration only half the maximum students for a particular section will be allowed to enroll. The second group, registering Jan. 28, will have the same opportunity for registering as those on the first day.

On Thursday and Friday registration will not begin until noon. Lines should not begin forming at 7 or 8 am.

The new method of registration is intended to create a more even distribution on all days of registration.

To aid the crowds that often develop on the days of registration, pre-registration will be held for English 2 or English 4 Friday in Mon. 104.

Pre-sectioning cards are being distributed in English land in literature classes, and the Columbian College Lower Division advisers are available in their offices for early advising.

Students who have arranged their schedules may go to Mon. 104 Friday and select the English Composition sections in which they wish to enroll. They will not have to return to the department during registration unless they need to make a change.

Further information may be secured at D-410.

Elliott Plans To Visit Alumni Around Nation

DR. LLOYD H. ELLIOTT, new University president, will begin a series of visits to alumni as the guest of honor at a dinner sponsored by the Philadelphia alumni of GW tomorrow at the Barclay Hotel in Philadelphia.

The President will visit, in the following order, other cities of high alumni concentration: Detroit, Cincinnati, Chicago, Cleveland, Dallas, Houston, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Salt Lake City, Denver, New York and Miami.

According to Elwood A. Smith, director of Alumni Relations at GW, the purpose of the trips is to introduce Dr. Elliott to alumni and to acquaint them with his plans and ambitions for the University in the years ahead. It is hoped that the meetings will encourage the active interest of alumni in other parts of the country.

Accompanying Dr. Elliott to Philadelphia will be Thaddeus A. Lindner, president of the University's General Alumni Association; Clifford A. Dougherty, chairman of Law Alumni Relations; and Mr. Smith.

*SPECIAL COLLEGE STUDENT LUNCHEON FEBRUARY 20

Students are invited to all lectures which begin at 10:30 a.m. sharp, end at 11:30 a.m. and are followed by a half hour of questions directed to the speaker. On February 20 all college students in the area are cordially invited to join with Dr. Eugene Borowitz as guests of the Congregation at a luncheon meeting, at which time he will further pursue his theme. In order to help us estimate for food preparation, would you kindly drop us a postcard to the above address if you plan to attend.

Prof Evaluation Available Soon

PROFESSOR EVALUATIONS will be distributed before spring semester registration, according to Paul Chemnick, chairman of the project.

Tassels pledges are now helping to assemble and type the objective reports; several subjective reports remain to be collected.

The mimeographed, fifty-page report will cover 110 professors. It will be free with Combo; persons without Combo may purchase the report for 25 cents.

"We've received a lot of cooperation from the faculty; about eighty per cent have responded to our requests for information," Chemnick reported.

The purpose of the report, stated Chemnick, is to give an "evaluation of the teaching methods of certain professors in order to familiarize the students with the faculty of the University."

Included in the report will be criticism's of each professor's proficiency in lecture, what material he covers and how, and his grading standards. Also included will be a brief synopsis of each professor's background, including his education, special interests, names of books he has written, awards he has received and his participation in student activities.

The report will be divided by departments, listing the professors interviewed in each department and the courses they teach. It is primarily an evaluation of professors and not of the courses they teach, Chemnick pointed out.

The report was first initiated last spring by the now-defunct Student Planning Commission. As planned then, the report was to be compiled from questionnaires distributed to the student body.

When Chemnick took over the evaluation committee, he decided to narrow its scope to include only lower division professors and have it compiled by outstanding students who are majoring the professor's field.

Faculty Cooperation Aids
Cal. State 'Prof-ile' Study

LOS ANGELES, CALIF. (IP) If a professor of California State College at Los Angeles wants to know what his students really think of him as a teacher, he can find out by purchasing a student publication called "Prof-ile."

This document, which sells in the campus bookstore for thirty cents per copy, will tell a professor if students think his lectures are thought-provoking, if the lectures are based on course material, or if tests are fair.

Although other universities and colleges have produced professor evaluation surveys in the past, the CSLA publication represents the first time students and faculty have worked together to compile such a document. In fact, all questionnaires utilized in the survey were actually distributed in the classroom and with the professor's permission.

Supervised by a group of student leaders, "Prof-ile" was devised, according to student body president Feliz Gutierrez, "to help serious students get the most out of their education by carefully selecting professors and not having to rely primarily on the campus grapevine."

How do the professors take to the critique? Most say they are pleased. Said one: "No professor should fear student opinion. Both students and professors can receive much benefit from this survey." Another: "This is an excellent idea." Only one responded: "I think this kind of questionnaire is uncalled for and I don't care to cooperate with you in it."

With the help of psychology and English department faculty, students contacted professors and sought permission to distribute questionnaires in the classroom. This procedure, it was decided, would provide three improvements over former methods of evaluation: (1) The distribution method guarantees that each student truly had the class with the professor about whom he comments; (2) The environmental conditions under which the questionnaires are completed are nearly identical; (3) A larger minimum response per professor is guaranteed.

Each student was asked to rate an individual instructor on eight points, ranging from "To what degree is the professor concerned about you as a student..." to "In comparison to that of other professors, the amount of work is..."

Each questionnaire also asks for the student's academic year, grade point average, sex, and whether the class is part of his major course of study.

The Associated Men Students, already at work on next year's "Prof-ile" said the new edition will also contain a descriptive statement of the professor's style, lecture delivery, and test frequency.

ROMAN IN THE GLOAMIN'

Now as the end of the first semester draws near, one fact emerges clearly: you are all going to flunk out of school.

There are two things you can do about it. First, you can marry money. (I don't mean you marry the money itself; I mean you marry a person who has money. Weddings between people and currency have not been legal anywhere in the United States since the Smoot-Hawley Act. Personna® Stainless Steel Blades, on the other hand, are legal everywhere and are, indeed, used with great pleasure and satisfaction in all fifty states of the Union and Duluth. I bring up Personna Stainless Steel Blades because this column is sponsored by the makers of Personna Stainless Steel Blades, and they are inclined to get edgy if I omit to mention their product. Some of them get edgy and some get double-edgy because Personna Blades come both in Injector style and Double Edge style.)

But I digress. I was saying you can marry money but, of course, you will not because you are a high-minded, clean-living, pure-hearted, freckle-faced American kid. Therefore, to keep from flunking, you must try the second method: you must learn how to take lecture notes.

According to a recent survey, eleven out of ten American undergraduates do not know the proper way to take lecture notes. To illustrate this appalling statistic, let us suppose you are taking a course in history. Let us further suppose the lecturer is lecturing on the ruling houses of England. You listen intently. You write diligently in your notebook, making a topic outline as you have been taught. Like this:

- I. House of Plantagenet.
- II. House of Lancaster.
- III. House of York.

Then you stop. You put aside your pen. You blink back a tear, for you cannot go on. Oh, yes, you know very well that the next ruling house is the House of Tudor. The trouble is you don't know the Roman numeral that comes after III.

It may, incidentally, be of some comfort to learn that you are not the only people who don't know Roman numerals. The fact is, the Romans never knew them either. Oh, I suppose they could tell you how much V or X were or like that, but when it came to real zingers like LXI or MMC, they just flung away their styluses and went downtown to have a bath or take in a circus or maybe stab Caesar a few times.

You may wonder why Rome stuck with these ridiculous numerals when the Arabs had such a nice, simple system. Well, sir, the fact is that Emperor Vespasian tried like crazy to buy the Arabic numerals from Suleiman The Magnificent, but Suleiman wouldn't do business—not even when Vespasian raised his bid to 100,000 gold piastres, plus he offered to throw in the Colosseum, the Appian Way, and Technicolor.

So Rome stuck with Roman numerals—to its sorrow, as it turned out. One day in the Forum, Cicero and Pliny got to arguing about how much is CDL times MVIX. Well, sir, pretty soon everyone in town came around to join the hassle. In all the excitement, nobody remembered to lock the north gate and—wham! before you could say ars longa—in rushed the Goths, the Visigoths, and the Green Bay Packers!

Well, sir, that's the way the empire crumbles, and I digress. Let's get back to lecture notes. Let's also say a word about Burma Shave®. Why? Because Burma Shave is made by the makers of Personna Blades who, it will be recalled, are the sponsors of this column. They are also the sponsors of the ultimate in shaving luxury. First coat your kisser with Burma Shave, regular or menthol—or, if you are the devil-may-care sort, some of each. Then whisk off your stubble with an incredibly sharp, unbelievably durable Personna Blade, Injector or Double Edge—remembering first to put the blade in a razor. The result: facial felicity, cutaneous cheer, epidermal elysium. Whether you shave every day, every III days, or every VII, you'll always find Personna and Burma Shave a winning combination.

QUESTION: What happens when injuries don't respect the 5 pm deadline of the University Health Center?

Sickness doesn't keep office hours and when a GW student like Richard Seelig injures his hand with a plexiglass rod in chemistry lab after the Health Center beds down for the night, he is forced to make the long walk up the hill to the GW Hospital's Emergency Room.

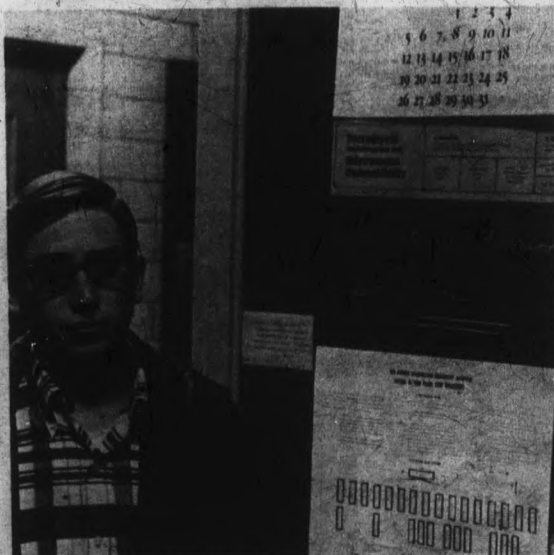

But there are a lot of people who are sicker than Seelig and first priority in an emergency room goes to the seriously injured, so he patiently waits his turn, and finally gets treated by an intern.

It's certainly not the GW Hospital's function to take care of students with minor injuries--Isn't that what we have a Health Center for?

Meet the Professor

Mosel Stresses Understanding

By Cynthia Park

"WHAT I AM TRYING to do is to communicate understanding. I am an advocate of the strong liberal arts approach in which I feel the broadest objective is to get people to see things in a new and challenging way, whether it is practical or not."

In this way James N. Mosel, assistant professor of psychology, expressed his approach in his teaching of courses in the area of language and communication and organizational psychology.

Professor Mosel believes that an excellent teacher is not one who simply transmits the conclusions which other people have formulated, but who also is engaged in the act of discovery himself. This does not necessarily mean that a teacher must publish in order to be good, but it does mean that he must be continuously curious about something because good teaching consists not merely of teaching but also of learning, according to Professor Mosel.

"Washington is the 'little Cambridge' for psychological research. Most people doing work in psycho-technology come here at one time or another and therefore there are people in the area and on the faculty whom I can learn from," he said. Professor Mosel also credits the type of students he has found at the University with the type of attitudes toward their own education which have contributed to his learning and his teaching ability.

"The kind of students we have, have more to offer their own education. They are interested without being erratic; they have a more mature type of interest which is not as sophomoric as in some places. In some specialties, I have very sophisticated groups. This type of situation keeps one stimulated to do well."

Professor Mosel explained that many times students can come up with questions or interpretations which a teacher may not have thought of, and thus, the classroom can be a reservoir for a wealth of new ideas. He also feels it is very important to involve the students in research.

The way that the graduate program is structured at the University is conducive to Professor Mosel's ideas of student involvement in research. "Here we are small enough to have a student working directly with one man," he said.

"The problem, as knowledge explodes, is to teach people how to handle it." Professor Mosel said that this is basically the difference between the European tradition in which the student learns what the master says, and the American approach in which we should be trying to teach the student how to evaluate and criticize. Thus, his lectures are not narrations about the things to be internalized, but rather he "models the sequence of explanation after the structure of the knowledge itself."

The task of the teacher, according to Professor Mosel, is to find out what the structure of information is. What he wants to do is to teach the student how to derive the theorem on which the facts are built and not so much to memorize the facts for their own sake.

Professor Mosel received his bachelor's degree from Colgate in biochemistry. In these studies he became interested in the behavior of the organism and took his masters in psychology from Columbia.

He served as Naval Intelligence Officer in charge of Foreign Language Services during WW II.

He has taught and done research in Thailand under the auspices of the State Department.

GW LAW SCHOOL has selected the five students who will represent the school at Regional Conference of the International Law Moot Court on the basis of an elimination round held at the Greek Embassy.

David Bean, Bruce Hopkins,

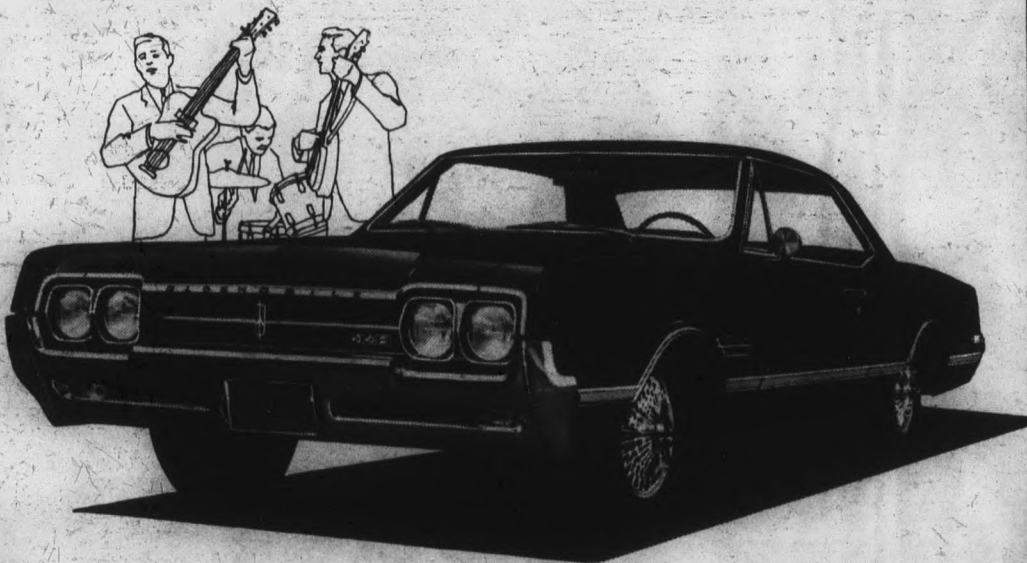

Larry Montgomery, Jerry Sacks, and Dave Wilson will compete against teams from Georgetown, University of Virginia, Columbia College, New York University, Yale and Pennsylvania in the conference to be held in early March.

The winning team of this conference will compete against the winning teams from the Western and Northern regions at the Mayflower Hotel in late March on the question of the legality of apartheid government in Rhodesia.

Robert Sietaty, a GW law student, is in charge of the national competition which will be held at the Mayflower Hotel.

Bob Tendler, Chairman of Phillip E. Jessup Moot Court Competition International Law Society GW Law School, is in charge of the GW team, and is holding practice rounds in preparation for the meet.

Teachers' Union Probes Berkeley 'Ethical Scandal'

BERKELEY, Calif. (CPS) -- The Berkeley local of the American Federation of Teachers has announced that it will investigate what it calls an "ethical scandal" involving faculty-directed research at the University of California.

Gary Reed, chairman of the local's academic affairs committee, said that a number of faculty members have published under their own names books and articles which have been prepared mainly by research assistants.

Reed said the union, which represents teaching and research assistants, will press the university for a code of ethics to protect the personal rights of research assistants to the work they do.

"In the meantime," Reed said, "the local intends to formally document those instances of unethical behavior which are known to researchers in several departments."

No names of professors or research assistants will be released to the press for fear of jeopardizing their jobs, he said.

"Our union insists that research assistants have as much right to the acknowledgement of their work as faculty members do for theirs," Reed said.

"This is an issue which affects not only the dignity of graduate student employees, which the union is pledged to defend, but the integrity of the entire university," he said.

The union claims that there is no generally accepted practice which defines the relationship between a faculty member at work on a research project and those hired to assist him. The nature and amount of work done by assistants varies greatly according to the faculty member and the requirements of his project, Reed said.

"Frequently," he said, "a professor will give only cursory examination to a finished product to which he then signs his name as sole author. Sometimes only incidental recognition is given to a person who has done the real work."

Pace College Evokes Challenge To Students with Honors Plan

New York, N.Y.-(IP)- Pace College will inscribe the words "Challenge Honors" on baccalaureate diplomas to be conferred on students who successfully complete the college's newly instituted "Challenge to Academic Excellence" Program, according to an announcement by Dr. Edward J. Mortola, president.

The Challenge to Excellence Program differs from most college honors programs in that it does not overlook students with C-plus averages and it does permit students to participate in some part of the program beginning with their freshman year and up through their senior year.

The entire program was designed by a faculty committee appointed by President Mortola. He has named Dr. John Saly, a holder of two doctor of philosophy degrees, as director of the program. During orientation week, incoming freshmen who have maintained good scholastic records in high school are interviewed by Dr. Saly to encourage their enrollment in the program. Careful study, too, is made of advanced students' records. Those students who have earned a quality point average of C-plus or better are invited to participate in the program.

The program, divided into six parts, consists of the following for students:

1) A series of inter-disciplinary challenge conferences in which they will prepare formal papers and conduct critiques of each other's work. Limited to 15 students, the conferences will be held in the fall semester of each year;

2) A series of challenge seminars offered by every academic department of the college. Bonus quality points will be given to each participant who successfully completes a seminar. The seminars are held each spring;

3) Students completing 90 or more credits with a B or better average may enroll in graduate courses at approved schools, with credit applied toward college degrees. The college will pay the difference in tuition;

4) Students completing 90 to 96 credits with a C-plus or better average may apply for removal of degree requirements and may be permitted to follow a specially planned individualized program under the guidance of the challenge program director;

5) Entering freshmen and advanced students may bypass courses in which they can demonstrate competence equal to the objective of the course;

6) Able students will be encouraged to earn up to 16 credits by passing New York State College Proficiency Examinations and up to 6 credits by independent study at college.

Says Dr. Saly, "Once the program fully unfolds with yearly challenge conferences and challenge courses, the College can provide a more integrated road to knowledge than several of the excessively departmentalized and compartmentalized large universities."

Draft Obligations Listed By Manpower Commission

WASHINGTON (CPS) -- Inquiries about the draft status of college students has prompted the Scientific Manpower Commission to compile a list of the responsibilities of both the students and the university toward the Selective Service System.

The article, compiled by the commission's executive secretary, Mrs. Betty Vetter, said that each educational institution has the responsibility of "keeping the Selective Service System constantly and currently informed of the presence of the registrant on the campus, what he is doing, and how effectively he is doing it."

The article lists students responsibilities as:

Keeping fully informed of their obligations and their rights under Selective Service. "More and more local boards are sending I-A classifications to all students registered with that board in an effort to differentiate between full-time students making good progress toward a degree goal, and those registrants who are part-time students, or whose academic progress is lagging," Mrs. Vetter wrote.

Sending their current address to their local draft board.

Taking immediate action if they plan to appeal reclassification into I-A. The article noted that there is a ten-day limitation for appeal, which starts on the date of the original mailing of the classification notice.

Who Are Campus Leaders? Ala. Dean Says Reformers

UNIVERSITY, Ala. (IP) -- "College Reformers: 1965" was the subject of the University of Alabama's Interim Dean of Men David Mathews' speech to student leaders at their recent annual retreat.

Dean Mathews pointed out that in many cases on campuses it is not the elected student leaders that the students follow but a group of unofficial leaders. Less than 10 percent of the students are reformers. To meet their challenge student leaders must be able to see beyond traditional roles, he said. It is really a question of communications.

There are several factors which contribute to the development of student protests, said

WASHINGTON (CPS) -- The question of student deferments from the draft will be discussed at four meetings during the next month.

Selective Service officials will meet in Washington with members of education associations and key government agencies next week and then three regional meetings will be held with directors of state selective service agencies.

A spokesman for the Selective Service System said the Washington meeting would begin on Jan. 13 and continue through Jan. 14 if necessary. Attending the meeting will be officials of the American Council on Education and other Washington-based education associations. Officials from the Office of Education, the Department of Defense, and the Department of Labor will be on hand.

The meeting will discuss the possibility of setting up a set of guidelines for use by local draft boards when they consider student deferments.

Such a set of guidelines has been urged by the American Council on Education. John F. Morse, director of the ACE's commission on federal relations, sent three letters to Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey in December asking that he issue a statement of "guidelines" to local boards for "orderly procedures" for the classification of students.

The council asked for a statement that would help clear up "confusion on both the rights and responsibilities of students in connection with their draft status."

The council noted that "local boards must still make their own determinations" but suggests "unless some guidance is provided them, I fear they will make them in a vacuum."

After the ACE's request, Gen. Hershey issued a statement which appeared in the January issue of the Selective Service publication that is sent to all local boards. Hershey said the Selective Service System will try to defer as many students as possible "but this is not a one-way street."

"The student must prove by his contributions to society after college that the training was worth the time. He must demonstrate during college that he is progressing toward the objectives for which he is being trained and that he is an individual that should be trained," Hershey's statement said.

"Military service is a privilege and obligation of free men in a democratic form of government," Hershey said. "It follows then that the induction of any registrant is not, and cannot be, a punishment," the statement said.

During the Korean War, the Selective Service System inducted students on the basis of class standing and scores on a Selective Service qualification test. The ACE asked that these provisions be reestablished and this will likely be the basis of the discussions next week, the spokesman said.

The student classification is one that could be reexamined at an early time, a Selective Service official said. He noted that the need for more manpower in the I-A had already caused an examination of the I-Y category, or those who will not be called except in a national emergency as declared by Congress.

National officers of the system met with state directors Jan. 9 at Fort Stewart, Ga., with the Southern state directors. Directors from the New England and East Central states will meet in Washington on Jan. 19 and the Western and Southwestern state directors will meet at San Diego, Calif., on Feb. 8.

These meetings, Selective Service officials hope, will provide uniformity in the system. The reexamination of the I-Y classification will be discussed as will the matter of student classification. Officials say they will also ask the state directors for their suggestions in how to meet the continued high draft calls due to the war in Vietnam.

Selective Service officials don't expect to announce any decision on student deferments until after the Feb. 8 meeting. If a set of guidelines is established, it will be sent to state directors from the national office.

Opportunity comes early at Ford Motor Company. Graduates who join us are often surprised at how quickly they receive personal assignments involving major responsibilities. This chance to demonstrate individual skills contrasts sharply with the experience of many young people entering the business world for the first time. At Ford Motor Company, for example, a graduate may initiate a project and carry it through to its final development. One who knows is David Tenniswood, of our research staff.

Dave joined Ford Motor Company in July, 1961.

Assigned to our steering and controls section, he helped develop a revolutionary steering system that will facilitate driving in future Ford-built cars. Currently a design engineer working on suspension design and analysis, Dave has been impressed by the extent to which management encourages personal initiative among recent graduates like himself. Here, management looks immediately to young engineers, like Dave, for fresh concepts that reflect their academic training and special abilities. Moreover, when the idea is accepted for development, the initiator is frequently given the opportunity to see the job through—from drawing board to production line!

The experience of Dave Tenniswood is not unusual. Ford Motor Company believes that early incentive is fundamental to individual growth and a successful career. If you are interested in a job that challenges your abilities and rewards enterprise, we urge you to contact our representative when he visits your campus.

Peace Corps PR Official Suggests Draft Alternatives

by Jay Zeller

THE LATEST WHISPERS circulating among the Peace Corps hierarchy could initiate a whole new concept in the Selective Service System and in the duty of young Americans to serve their country.

The whispers are the brainchild of Robert Satin, a top level recruiting agent and public relations officer for the Peace Corps.

Satin, posing the question, "Why not let all draft age citizens, male and female, serve their country?" presents the unique idea of giving American youth, from 18 to 28 the option of performing either military or social service.

The plan would be implemented by the Selective Service, he said, "where men and women would be allowed the choice of serving two years in the Peace Corps, the military, voter registration centers in the south, Project Head Start, Teachers Corps, or the Job Corps.

According to Satin, this scheme would make everyone 1-A, "because everyone has something to offer his society." "After all," he said, "why should a person who can't afford to go to college be forced to fight in Vietnam."

The operation of the plan would vastly increase the importance of the Selective Service System. It would be the duty of the Selective Service to give placement tests to high school seniors and to hear their proposals on how they would like to complete their two year obligation.

The Selective Service could then, on the basis of the student's test, and his personal preference, attempt to mesh these with the national manpower needs.

Even though the plan does away with student deferments, Satin does not believe that the program would interfere with a person's desire to get a college education. He states that, "college students could fulfill their two years obligation by serving in the military after graduation, taking ROTC in college, or working with the Peace Corps and other community projects during the summer.

The plan is, in part, a response by Satin and other Peace Corps workers to channel, not only the political but all the activities among American youth into areas where they can do positive good.

Satin feels that there is a large segment of young Americans, "who simply don't want to be a part of something that is killing other people." This plan, he hopes, would offer them some alternative.

"Students often become so involved in the mechanics of protest that they lose sight of their purpose," he declared. "What is needed therefore, is a way to show them that they can do something about Vietnam besides the mechanics of protest," he said.

The scope of the new idea, however, is much broader than just pacifying the student activists. On the question of making girls 1-A, Satin expressed this idea: "We've left behind our Victorian attitudes about women on a pedestal. If they want a voice in society then they have to face up to the obligations of that society."

People who are now classified as 4-F for various physical reasons could be utilized in areas other than the military such as Job Corps instructors.

The plan is at present only in the idea stage. But Satin said the idea is soon to be hashed over in a panel discussion between educators, students, and Peace Corps workers.

Rally at Memorial Today

GW Students To Protest Slaying

A RALLY to protest the fatal shooting of an Alabama civil rights worker will be held today at 2 p.m. at the Lincoln Memorial.

In protest of the shooting of 21-year-old Samuel L. Young, Jr., a Negro student at Tuskegee Institute, the rally will include speeches from Tuskegee students and students from the area colleges.

A march from the memorial to the White House and a vigil in front of the White House will follow the speeches.

Young, who was killed last Tuesday, was a political science major at Tuskegee Institute, a predominantly Negro college.

Marvin Segrest, 69, a white service station operator, has been charged with first-degree murder in the killing.

Young was slain after reportedly having tried to use a restroom at the service station where Segrest worked as a night attendant.

Charles M. Keever, mayor of Tuskegee, where Negroes outnumber white, expressed shock at the shooting and said that Negroes were normally allowed to use the restroom at the service station.

Keever was the target of taunts from some of the marchers but he joined arms with the students at the end of the demonstration and joined them in singing "We Shall Overcome."

Young was a field worker for the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee and also was coordinating chairman of the Tuskegee Institute Advancement League, an on-campus civil rights organization.

His body was found sprawled in the entrance of an alley about 75 feet from the gasoline station. The body was found by a taxi driver and police said it was found 25 to 45 minutes after the shooting. Young died, police said, from a .38 calibre bullet wound in the temple.

He had been active in numerous civil rights activities and the day before his death had worked in a voter registration drive in which 101 Negroes were registered.

The shooting touched off widespread reaction on the campus of Tuskegee Institute and students lined up five abreast about noon and started marching toward the downtown area in a steady cold rain.

The silent marchers began shouting when they reached the city hall and demanded to see the mayor. The mayor finally appeared by had kept the group waiting about 10 minutes in the rain while he prepared a statement. A Negro girl was sent in to tell him that unless he appeared he was "going to have about 2,000 students in there with him."

When the mayor appeared to read his statement, he was backed up by his five councilmen three of whom are Negro.

He said the FBI had been called into the case.

In Atlanta, John Lewis, chairman of SNCC, called on President Johnson to send Federal marshalls into Alabama. He charged that "violence and terror is the order of the day" in six Alabama counties.

A memorial service for Young was held at Tuskegee Institute Wednesday.

Buff Win Two Straight; Indians Break Win Streak

By Larry Garfinkel

THE BASKETBALL TEAM finally broke into the win column, scoring two straight victories over Furman and The Citadel, before William and Mary snapped the string.

Furman became the first Buff victim on Monday, December 13, by a score of 87-80. Three days later The Citadel was outclassed, 95-84, as the Colonial system of fast breaking finally was effective. Terry Grefe had the best night of his career, as he led the Colonial scorers with 29 points, sinking 13 of his 21 field goal attempts. Joe Lalli scored 21, while Ed Rainey and Dick Ballard scored in double figures and each contributed 13 rebounds apiece. Herwig Baumann led the Bulldogs with 25 points.

William and Mary stopped the Colonial fast break and coasted to a 79-66 victory on December 18. The Colonials shot a very cold 38.6% from the floor. Guards Ron Panneton and Walter Wenk led the victory with 20 and 18 points, respectively. Lalli and Grefe led the Buff attack with 15 points each, mainly from foul shots. Any chance of a Colonial victory vanished when both starting big men, Rainey and Ballard fouled out midway through the final half.

VMI gained its first victory of the year last Monday, January 3, by smashing the Buff, 97-74. Charlie Schmaus, the pre-season pick as the best player in the Conference, finally got rolling by pumping in 35 points. He also pulled in 16 rebounds. Teammate Robin Porter followed closely with 34 points. The Colonials defeated themselves by shooting a cold 32.1% from the floor. Lalli led Buff scorers with 15 points, but made only five of seventeen shots. Ballard and Rainey each collected eleven points.

Lalli continues to lead Colonial scorers, averaging about twenty points a game. Grefe and Rainey are the only other players averaging in double figures. Ballard, Rainey, and Grefe, are the team leaders in rebounding.

Catch-Up Rally Falls Shy

Richmond Stops Buff, 106-93

THE COLONIALS made a strong run at the Richmond Spiders, slicing a 19 point second half lead to six, but it was not enough as the Spiders defeated the Colonials, 106-93 last Saturday night at the Richmond Arena.

Playing without starting letterman Ed Rainey, who had to return home due to a death in his family, the Buff lost their second straight game to the Spiders. Dick Ballard, a 6-8 junior, saw limited action due to a recurrence of an old back injury but provided 19 points.

Joe Lalli was the Buff's leading scorer, tossing in a game high 24 points. He was followed by Terry Grefe and Ballard with 19 apiece and Bob Nugent, who contributed 13.

Richmond and GW traded baskets for the first ten minutes, and the Spiders led 25-23 when Grefe tied the game with two free throws. Then the Spiders spurred off 15 straight points for a 40-25 lead, but the Buff cut it to seven and trailed by 52-45 at the half.

Richmond increased its lead in the opening minutes of the second half and, by using its superior height, pulled out to an 88-69 advantage.

At this point, the Buff started to rebound and outscore the Spiders, 15-2, making the score, 90-84, but the home club came back with several fast breaks following a time out to regroup its forces, and pulled away in the final two minutes.

throws made. His point totals through the first five games were: 31 against Richmond, 42 against Walter Reed Army Center and 29 against Shenandoah Jr. College, 33 against Maryland, and only 11 against Mackinac, one of two area high schools that ranks among the best in the country. Ray also led all scorers with his effort at Maryland to turn back the previously unbeaten Baby Terps.

The biggest man on the freshman team is Francis Mooney, an area resident who attended Suitland High School. A science major, Mooney stands 6'8" and is second to Holup in team rebounds.

Other members of the team include Ned Scherer, a 5'10" Business Administration major who is tied for second place for scoring with Eric Spenk, a 6'11" international affairs major from nearby Alexandria, Va. Gary Miller, a 6'5" Physical Education major is the third leading rebounder, besides having the fourth best scoring average. Charles Hillon, who has not played in every game, is a 5'8" Liberal Arts major from Bay-side, New York.

Dave Sollenberger, a 5'10" science major from McLean, Va., will be joining the varsity in the second semester. He played only one semester as a freshman last year. He is expected to become a top back-court prospect.

Hockey Win Spotlights Role Of Minor Sports

By Peter Breese

FACING ITS FIRST opposition since the Christmas holidays, the GW hockey team soundly defeated a fighting Maryland squad 13-3 last Wednesday night. The Terps managed to contain the Colonials in the first period as GW collected only three goals. The Buff exploded in the last period with Charlie Beaumont collecting four scores in the final ten minutes of the game.

Playing its best hockey as a unit the forward line of Beaumont, Breese and Mackmakin pounded the hapless Maryland defense but were unable to tally with any consistency. Switching Beaumont to play with Pell and Macintyre proved to be the scoring key as they accounted for 12 of the 13 goals. Beaumont got the first colonial score on a solo run that left the Blue defenders totally stymied. Pell and Macintyre each added their first to round out the first period.

In the second period the Buff scored three more before goalie Sachs lost his shutout on a screen shot by Maryland forward Harvey Moins. The astute work of defenseman Skipper Koons saved any further Maryland scoring while the Colonials played six minutes of five-man hockey while Tone sat in the penalty box for consecutive tripping and fighting penalties.

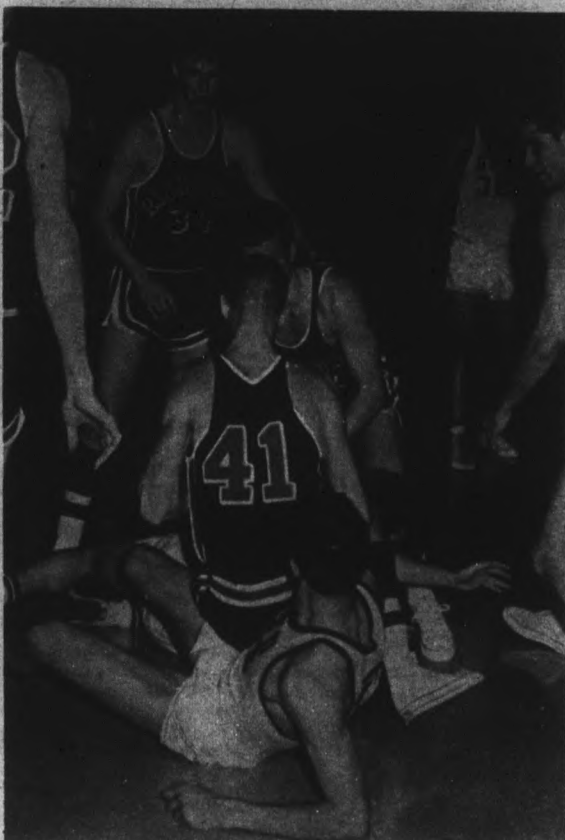

The final period was a comedy of errors. At one point both squads began milling around thinking the game had ended when the referee has simply blown his whistle to signal some minor infraction. Pell and Beaumont managed to score at random, while Macintyre added considerably to his point total by picking up some seven assists. The Maryland goalie was completely stymied as shots trickled in between his legs during melees in front of the net or during Beaumont's periodical solos on the nets. The game finally ended with a last GW goal and with the Colonials' hold on first place in the Metropolitan League stronger than ever.

The Buff victory over Maryland left GW with an unblemished record for the season, with the exception of a forfeit to the Baltimore club. With no University financial support, despite having won the Metropolitan Hockey Championship last year, the pucksters could not raise enough funds or drivers to make the Baltimore trip.

The checkered success of the hockey team exemplifies the status of most minor sports at the University. The crew team enjoys enthusiastic student support and the fledgling soccer team is well on its way. But the wrestling club, with the season half over, has not even begun practice.

Play the Numbers...

STUDENT DIRECTORY continues to be available to all students in the Student Union Ticket Office between the hours of 11 am and 6 pm. As previously announced, Combo-holders will be guaranteed their free copies through the end of the first semester, Jan. 21. Director-ies will be sold in the gymnasium during registration on a first come-first serve basis at the regular price of 35 cents, while free to Combo-holders as the supply permits.

ED RAINEY, who missed the Richmond game Saturday night, appears to be forming a cushion for Richmond player in earlier action this year.

WRA Prepares Group Ski Trip, Gymnast Club

THE GW SKI CLUB, sponsored by the Women's Recreation Association, will meet Tuesday, January 11, at 8:30 pm in Bldg. K. The purpose of this meeting will be to finalize plans for the ski trip scheduled for semester break on January 22 and 23.

All GW students are cordially invited to attend this meeting and join the group travelling to the slopes. A speaker from the Ski Center will be present to discuss arrangements for the trips of the Club. Group rates are available, so the more the merrier.

The total cost of the first trip will be $41.00, which includes transportation, meals, room, and equipment rental. The group will leave Friday evening for Blue Nob Ski Area in Pennsylvania, and will return Sunday. Call Miss Abbey (Ext. 341) for further information.

All GW women who are interested in entering the Annual WRA Swim Meet should contact Susan Goldstein in Room 532 of Superdorm. The meet will be held at the YWCA pool on February 25, from 1:30-4:30 pm. All contestants may swim for both individual points and for organization team points. The Honorary Swim Team will be selected from high-scoring entries. Get your teams together and enter now.

Gymnast enthusiasts should be planning now to attend the first meetings of the WRA Gymnastics Club on February 3 and 4 from 7 to 9 pm. in Bldg. K. Basic work on apparatus, including trampoline, will be available. Other meetings will be scheduled to suit the convenience of club members. Call Mrs. Collier (CR-3-3218) for information.

Listen to WRGW and watch this column and the Recreation Bulletin Boards in Bldg. K, the Student Union, and Superdorm for announcements of other second semester events.

Hoyas Run Past Colonials Despite Nugent's 26 Points

GEORGETOWN put on a phenomenal shooting exhibition in the first half to pave the way to a coasting 100-81 victory over the Buff last night at Fort Myer.

The Hoyas hit on 61 per cent of their floor shots to take a 55-38 lead into the dressing room at halftime. The Buff had taken a 5-4 lead early in the game but it soon vanished in the wake of the Hoyas' scoring spree.

GW's Bob Nugent, a 6'8" sophomore, had his second straight game in which he scored in double figures by tallying a game-high 26 points. He was followed by Terry Grete with 16 and Joe Lalli who netted 14. Sophomore Dennis Caesar led the Hoyas scoring with 22 points, followed by Jake Gibbons with 16, Steve Sullivan and Jim Barry who each netted 14, and Bob Ward and playmaker Jim Brown who each tallied 12.

Nugent was pressed into service after GW's Ed Rainey and Georgetown's Frank Hollendoner were thrown out of the game for fighting early in the first half.

In the preliminary game the GW frosh defeated the Hoyas' freshmen, 92 to 67 behind Ray Holup's 35 points.

Feldman and Schmidt Share Scoring Honors

By Stu Sirkis

INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL is well into its first half schedule. Most teams have completed three or four out of their five game slates.

"A" action saw on Sunday, Dec. 12, 1965 DTD vanquish SX, 58-49, behind Self's 24 points. Hart and Rhuland chipped in with 16 and 12 points respectively for the victors. Corbert put in 19 and Albert tallied 14 for the losing SX squad. The Duffs completely dominated AEPi in their game. AEPi could only manage 13 points, Wender had seven of them, to the Duffs' 71. John Folds took scoring honors with 21 and Lou Rubino added 16.

Welling (1) downed SAE, 53-46. Tom Metz led Welling with 16 points, but Dave Malesco of SAE took scoring honors with 17 tallies. Feldman scored 30 for Law and Schmidt the same for Welling (2) as Law won 52-50. These two performances represent the individual highs for the season. The Lettermen ran over PSK, 62-21. Usiskin had 19 for the winning five, while Kubnick had 13 for the losers.

Further "A" play on Tuesday Dec. 14 Law defeated TEP 55-43, behind Feldman's 21. Football star Gary Lyle had 15 markers for the TEP five. SAE easily handled AEPi, 52-34, behind 6'8" Dave Malesco's 29 points. A day later SX scored 50 points to PSK's 37. Leading scorers were SX's Jack Albert, 13, and Jerry Pope, 12, and J. Kabnick of PSK, 12.

Schmidt tossed in 15 tallies to lead Welling (3) to a narrow 46-44 conquest of DTD. Self and Rhuland each chipped in 13 for DTD. The New Year's action on Tues. January 4 with TEP downing Welling (1), 57-42. Gray had 23 and Wright canned 14 for the winners. In one of the highest scoring games of the season Law downed the Duffs, 89-60. Kaplan put in 21 markers and Goldberg 18 for the winning five while Rubino had 17 and Denbow 16 for the losers.

The next day Welling (2) behind Lannan's 16 points defeated SX, 54-44. Jack Albert led SX with 13 points. Usiskin scored 23 points, Manning, 17 and Dearden, 14, to lead the Lettermen to a 75-51 conquest of DTD. The Dells had 51 markers with Rhuland accounting for 11 and Hart and Gunderson 10 each.

In "B" league games on Sat. Dec. 11, PSK battled SAE (3) in a defensive battle. PSK won 18-16; Welpott led all scoring with 9 points. Med School overcame a PSD (1) half time lead and edged them 35-34; Chris Folkemer of PSD took scoring honors with 14 points while Marc Isenberg chipped in 13 for the losers. Trick had 13 and Schoenfeld accounted for 12 for the winners. Welling forfeited to Med Seniors.

Engineering ran over SPE, 50-26 as Deming scored 18 and Manolotse 12 for the Engineers. Powley's 10 points led SAE (1) to a 32-20 downing of SX (2). TEP (2) easily defeated Welling (2), 45-28. The TEP team was led by Schanies 14 points and Derrick's 10. Cor Art completely crushed AEPi (2), 72-30. John Thomas took scoring honors with 26 points, Jim Joynes had 17, Herb Robertson tallied 14 and Stone contributed 13. For the losers Block had 12.

On Dec. 12, Crawford easily handled PSD (3), 66-33. Jim Gerwin had 20 for the victors while Mark Plotkin, Burt, and Richmond each had 12. Art Gutkin led PSD with 17 markers. Chomski scored 15 points to lead TEP (1) to a 35-28 conquest of Los Latinos. Pete Isaacson had 11 for Los Lat. DTD scored 11 points on foul shots to give them a 37-33 victory over Adv. Tischle's 17 was high for the losers. Startup tallied 14 markers and Bowers caged 12 to lead LE/AP to a 44-28 victory over ROTC.

Law could only manage 26 points despite Windsor 14 tallies so they lost to the Disasters who had 46 including 18 by Duppart. Med (Kul) edged KS, 29-24, with Michelson of KS taking scoring honors with 11. SX (1) practically doubled TKE's point total as they won 35-18. Teter had 13 for the winners while Shane Stahl put in 12 for TKE. Adams forfeited to the Successes.

On Tues. Dec. 14, AEPi (1) downed KS 36-23. Linterscored 11 for the winners. SN had only 19 points but it was two more than SAE (2) tallied. Sosnonski led SN with 8 points while Griffel had 7 for SAE (2). The next day TEP (1) defeated TKE, 32-30. Levien had 12 for the winners while for the losers Shane Stahl had 12 and Steve Sharfman, 10. Crawford won their fourth straight; this time it was a 53-36 victory over SPE. Mark Plotkin had 15 tallies for the winners while Burt had 14 and Jim Gerwin 12. For SPE, Watt Bechtold, Kun, and Hopkins had eight each.

Navy, Va. Tech, Terrapins Next To Oppose Buff

THREE NON-CONFERENCE TEAMS provide the opposition for the Buff as they round out the month of January. Navy and VPI battle GW tomorrow and Saturday, and Maryland invades Fort Myer on the 27th, following a twelve day break for finals.

The Midshipmen have the advantage of home court, tomorrow, when the Colonials resume their hectic schedule after a one day rest. For one of the few times this year, GW will have a height advantage over the small but scrappy Annapolis team. The two big men on Navy are 6'5" Jim Snook and Chris Reddington, the team's leading scorer, also at 6'5". If these two have bad days, the slack in scoring is usually taken up by guard Bill Radcliffe, who scored 25 points against Georgetown last week to keep the 88-75 score rather respectable. Those 88 points scored by the Hoyas were the most scored off Navy this year. Navy, currently 3-5 on the year, will be out to avenge last year's 78-71 defeat at the hands of the Colonials.

Virginia Tech, now playing as an independent, invades Fort Myer Saturday night in the last game before the exam break. The Gobblers and Colonials split last year, with VPI winning the first game, 92-74, and then bowing 84-83 at Fort Myer when a last second shot fell short. The Colonials will close out their regular season this year against Virginia Tech on Feb. 18.

A victory by Maryland over GW on February 27 will give the Terps their second straight area Big Three Championship. A victory over the Buff would give Maryland a perfect 2-0 record for big three competition, since it beat Georgetown earlier in the year. Coach Bud Milliken had the honor of welcoming back all five starters from last year's winning team, Gary Ward and Jay McMillan are the leading Terp scorers, with Neil Brayton, Joe Harrington, and playmaker Gary Williams rounding out the starting five. Rick Wise is the number one substitute for Milliken, who has visions of winning the ACC championship. After capturing the Sugar Bowl Conference, the Terrapins dropped two straight Conference games to North Carolina and Virginia, mainly because they were shooting poorly from the foul line.

Southern Conference Moves on; W. Va. Dominates Basketball

OFFICIAL RECOGNITION for soccer by the Southern Conference was the main action taken at the winter meeting of Conference schools held in Washington in late December. This move which makes soccer an official Conference sport will go into effect next year.

The Southern Conference football season finally came to an end on December 25, when Conference stars George Pierce of William and Mary, joined West Virginia players Allen McCune, Dick Leftridge, and Bob Dunlevy in the North-South Shrine All-Star game at Miami, Florida. Pierce was the starting flanker for the South and caught several passes from McCune and Tulsa's Bill Anderson. However, it was McCune who seemingly saved the day for the Southern stars. With his team trailing by a score of 14-6 in the fourth quarter, McCune came off the bench and drove his team down the field for a score. He then tied the score by passing for two points to teammate Dunlevy. Leftridge scored two touchdowns for the South, which triumphed, 21-14.

In holiday tournaments during the vacation break, William and Mary made a strong showing as it placed second in the Motor City Classic, bowing to host Detroit, 80-65. The Indians had defeated Eastern Kentucky to get into the finals. Navy, the Buff's opponent tomorrow, pulled a major upset in the opening round of the Charlotte Tournament by defeating Davidson, 65-60.

Former George Washington football star Mike Sommer was chosen to the all-star team of the North American Football League on December 25. Sommer was chosen as a defensive halfback and was one of seven Annapolis Sailors, league champions, who were selected.

In Southern Conference basketball standings, the battle for first place is shaping up between West Virginia and Davidson, who are both undefeated. William and Mary and Richmond are closely on the heels of the leaders.
